PATTON'S TROOPS LAUNCH NEW DRIVE ON SOUTH SIDE OF BITTER ARDENNES SALIENT

Elements of Fourth and Fifth Infantry Divisions Cross Sure River Fifteen Miles North of City of Luxembourg

NAZIS TRAPPED BEFORE SIEGFRIED LINE MOPPED UP

BULLETIN
Paris, Jan. 18—(AP)—British troops advanced almost three miles into Germany today to near Hogen, center of a Reich district jutting into the Dutch Panhandle.

By JAMES M. LONG
Paris, Jan. 18—(AP)—British troops invaded Germany at a new point today in a two and a half mile advance from Holland toward the Roer river, sweeping through four villages and reeling the Germans back with shellfire and bayonets.

Lt. George S. Patton's Third Army launched a new drive on the south side of the Ardennes salient. Elements of the Fourth and Fifth Infantry Divisions crossed the Sure river beginning at 4 a. m. in the Dieffrich area, 15 miles north of Luxembourg city and 18 southwest of the Siegfried line stronghold of Bitburg. The crossing was forced despite heavy mortar, machinegun and small arms fire.

In the Ardennes salient to the south, the U. S. First Army attacked less than four miles from St. Vith, four miles from the Reich. The Third Army mopped up Nazis trapped before the Siegfried Line in Germany near Nennig, 12 miles south of Luxembourg city.

But above Strasbourg, the reinforced and increasingly aggressive Germans lengthened their narrow cross-Rhine bridgehead to nine miles and captured Stettin and Dengolsheim, 15 miles northeast of the Alsatian capital. The U. S. Army, however, won adjacent Sessenheim, fought into the streets of Herrlisheim and beat down attacks at Hatten.

The white-capped Britons of Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's Second Army captured Susteren, Echt, Overveind and Overhaven in the Dutch panhandle. They swept on across the frontier in a hook shaped tip of Germany northeast of Sittard in an area about eight miles from the Roer, 24 from Munchen Gladbach (127,000) and 38 from Germany's 11th city of Dusseldorf (540,000).

Echt is seven miles north of Sittard; Overveind a half mile north. Susteren and Overveind are between and east of Maeseyck. Dieteren was captured yesterday. By a trick of boundaries, the British will have to again pass through a silver of the Netherlands before (Turn to Page Eleven)

Bradley Believed Back In Command
By the Associated Press
Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley possibly has resumed command of all armies in his 12th Army Group on the central sector of the western front.

His command was split by Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's December offensive and the northern part of his forces, including the Ninth and most of the First Army, was placed under command of British Field Marshal Montgomery.

Bradley retained command of troops on the south of the Belgian bulge, including Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army, some units of the First, and one division of the U. S. 7th Army.

Censors at supreme headquarters Allied expeditionary force allowed this passage to be wireless this morning: "The American First Army—perhaps by now back under Bradley's command—beat its way toward St. Vith."

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—American army casualties of 74,788 in December alone on the western front have brought the total from D-Day in June to Jan. 1 to 332,912.

Secretary of War Stimson reported today, said the total for that period included 54,562 killed, 232,672 wounded and 45,678 missing.

The 74,788 figure for December included 10,419 killed, 43,554 wounded and 20,815 missing. Most of the missing in December, Stimson said, are probably German prisoners.

Air Priority for Dog Called Regrettable Series of Errors

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said today that neither Col. Elliott Roosevelt nor the White House had asked for an air priority for a dog which displaced three service men from an army cargo plane.

Early termed the whole affair "a most regrettable combination of errors."

The dog was sent to Colonel Roosevelt's wife, actress Faye Emerson in Hollywood. When the plane carrying it reached Memphis, January 11, 300 pounds of high priority freight had to be put aboard, according to the war department, and a sailor, soldier and navy Seabee were put off to make the weight allowance. The English bull mastiff stayed aboard.

Appeal for Manpower Draft Spurs Congressional Chiefs

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—Reversing an earlier decision, the house military committee today reopened its hearings on work-or-be-drafted legislation.

Chairman May (D-Ky) announced after a closed morning session that Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator, and Edward A. O'Neal, head of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be heard at a public hearing this afternoon.

The decision to hear the two was reached after farm representatives expressed fear to the committee that the legislation under consideration might adversely affect agriculture and tend to drive essential farm workers into war industry.

Despite the reopening of the hearings, May said he hoped the committee would agree by nightfall on the final draft of a bill. Prompt enactment was requested yesterday by President Roosevelt.

Still to be threshed out behind closed doors are such vexing matters as what age groups should be affected by the legislation, what penalties should be imposed on violators, what union rights should be protected or waived in the proposed shifting of draft-deferred men from non-essential to essential jobs.

But there was almost unanimous agreement as the committee concluded more than a week of public hearings yesterday that some form of action is imperative immediately.

That the committee intended to lose no time acting was indicated by its sudden decision to close the hearings a day ahead of schedule after the president, General George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest J. King reduced to writing their requests for action.

To add force to his plea, the president sent May a joint letter from Marshall and King stressing the need for a minimum of 700,000 additional industrial workers "if (Turn to Page Eleven)

Dawn Raiders Hit Railyards Behind Front

London, Jan. 18—(AP)—A small force of Flying Fortresses today bombed Kaiserlautern, an important German rail yard behind the Saar front.

One hundred Mustang fighters and 100 B-17's also made a tactical attack on a rail center west of Mannheim, about 30 miles behind the German lines.

RAF Bombers returned to the big German industrial center of Magdeburg with a new load of explosives just before dawn today and found the city still ablaze from the previous night's attack.

Striking about 5 a. m., the raiders caught the Germans by surprise, dropped their bomb loads and returned home without loss, the air ministry said.

The early morning raid signaled the sixth straight day of an all-out assault upon German fuel resources and vital war industries hundreds of miles behind the front lines.

The dawn raiders were identified by the air ministry as Mosquitos carrying two-ton blockbusters.

Foxburg Man Missing Three Years Is Safe

Foxburg, Jan. 18—(AP)—Three years of prayer and hope were answered yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McHenry when the postman brought a letter from their son, "missing in action" since the Japs overran the Philippines in 1941.

The letter, from Sgt. Clyde McHenry, 27, was dated Oct. 3, 1944. Where it came from was not known, but the family, with five other boys in service, drank in the words: "I am well and getting along fine."

Sgt. McHenry added: "There must be questions you want to ask me, but you'll have to wait until I get home."

Cold Hampers Snow Removal In the State

By the Associated Press
Penetrating cold again hampered Pennsylvania's efforts today to dig from under a record-breaking snowstorm which buried sectors of east-central Pennsylvania to upwards of two feet Tuesday.

The unsmiling weather man promised no respite. There will be more snow tomorrow, he said.

With temperatures ranging from 24 below in Warren county to 15 above in Pittsburgh, driving throughout the state remained hazardous.

War plants, which suffered a wave of absenteeism in the wake of the frosty blanket, appeared to be returning to full strength. Philadelphia and Lancaster industries reported upswing trends.

In Philadelphia, only 50 of the needed 300 extra workers for snow removal reported for work yesterday.

State highway officials in Harrisburg said virtually all of Pennsylvania's main highways were open and that state and county crews were attempting to make secondary roads passable.

Schools were reopening. Harrisburg's two-day school holiday was ended and Lancaster and Reading pupils returned to their books.

Several rural schools, however, remained closed.

The hitting cold—it was 17 below in Kane, zero at York and Tarentum, 5 below at Colverville, 8 above at Scranton and Hazleton, 10 above at Philadelphia—was considered the main cause for failure to clear the roads.

BULLETINS

New York, Jan. 18—(AP)—Daily and Sunday newspaper advertising in support of the war effort totaled $49,651,577 in the first 10 months of 1944, the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association reported today.

Hershey, Jan. 18—(AP)—Pennsylvania's 17 Republican congressmen were guests today of high state and party officials at a conference designed to promote cooperation between the state administration and the GOP congressional delegation.

Train Schedules Being Curtailed

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—Some railroad passenger schedules are being temporarily discontinued to expedite the movement of war freight.

Shortly after the Office of Defense Transportation announced this policy the New York Central system curtailed some passenger car and train services.

A spokesman for the carrier said the schedule changes were ordered to speed war traffic under "the worst weather conditions encountered for a good many years."

Carriers operating in New York state, Ohio, upper Pennsylvania and Indiana particularly are affected but ODT said the action could be regarded as a "practical policy" of giving war freight precedence over passengers.

SOVIET FORCES BELIEVED TO HAVE CROSSED REICH BORDER IN RICH INDUSTRIAL SILESIA

Three Great Units, 2,000,000 Strong on 250-Mile Front, Fast Liberating All Poland After Capture of Warsaw

LUBLIN RADIO REPORTS CAPTURE OF KRAKOW

BULLETIN
London, Jan. 18—(AP)—Marshal Stalin announced today in an order of the day the capture of Modlin, 15 miles northeast of Warsaw, and 1,000 other populated places. Modlin, a German stronghold guarding the southern border of East Prussia, fell to Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army, Marshal Stalin said. Since Rokossovsky's offensive began from the Narew bridgeheads January 14, his troops have captured more than 1,500 towns and villages.

By the Associated Press
London, Jan. 18—(AP)—Russian troops, rolling forward with massive momentum in Marshal Stalin's greatest winter offensive, may already have crossed the German frontier into the coal and industrial region of Silesia.

One Moscow dispatch said it was believed Germany was now fighting on her homeland soil on both the east and west fronts.

Three great Russian armies, 2,000,000 strong on a 250-mile front, were fast liberating all Poland after the capture of Warsaw, Radom and Czestochowa, and the Germans were reported falling back to their next natural line of defense, the Oder river, 30 miles from Berlin.

Berlin said Tomaszow, 30 miles southeast of Lodz, Poland's great industrial city in Silesia, was evacuated, and said Breslau, Germany's chief industrial city in Silesia, was "directly in the danger zone."

The Lublin radio said Krakow, city of Poland's ancient kings, also had been captured.

The forces of Marshal Gregory Zhukov, which took Warsaw, and of Marshal Ivan Konev were converging on Lodz from the east as well as the south.

Zhukov, after taking Zyrardow, 25 miles west of Warsaw, struck southwest toward Lodz, 46 miles away. Zhukov was 288 miles from Berlin.

Konev's first Ukraine army, which captured Czestochowa, the Catholic center known as the Polish Lourdes, struck for the German frontlines 15 miles distant.

It was Konev who was closest to Berlin, 260 miles at Czestochowa.

A German army radio in Poland early today said the position on the east front "still is completely confused."

Martin Hallensleben, chief military commentator for the German DNB agency, said in an early broadcast that the Germans had "no chance to meet the Russian superiority frontally" and hinted that Nazi strategy in Poland would (Turn to Page Eleven)

Citrus Juices Back Under Rationing

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—Two popular citrus juices went back under rationing today amid indications other commodities may be added soon to the lengthening point charts.

As housewives began paying out blue stamps again for grapefruit juice and blended grapefruit and orange juice, the OPA, it was learned, was trying to decide whether to put lard and other shortening and salad and cooking oil back on the list.

The situation was described by one source as "touch and go," with the decision dependent on supply surveys now being made. Reduced pork production has cut output of these items and contributed to spotty distribution.

Ration values set for the two juices are 10 points for No. 2 cans, 20 points for 46-ounce cans, and 40 points for No. 10 cans.

On the right the Yanks advanced 17 miles up the thumblike Bolinao peninsula to capture the city of Bolinao, at the northern end, after a short skirmish with a weak enemy rear guard.

The western part of the drive extended the Lingayen gulf beachhead to approximately 60 miles. On the left flank the Sixth Army cut the main Luzon-Gaguio highway in two places and sent patrols into Pozorubio, around which the most stubborn resistance of the invasion has been encountered. The Americans now have "five wedges along this important highway."

One Yank column was last reported only a half mile from Rosario, moving eastward along a road which joins the main highway two miles beyond the town. Junction at the fork would put the two Yank columns on a mountain (Turn to Page Eleven)

Wallace Believed Slated To Be Secretary of Commerce

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—their talk with Mr. Roosevelt, but Fresh reports circulated today that Henry A. Wallace will be named secretary of commerce in President Roosevelt's fourth term cabinet.

They disturbed senate friends of Secretary Jesse Jones and led them to seek assurance that Jones would continue in any event as head of federal lending and financing agencies.

The White House was completely silent on Mr. Roosevelt's intentions and the principals alike made no statements but the report that the president is leaning to Wallace gained wide acceptance in congressional circles.

Senators Connally (D-Tex) and Bailey (D-N.C.), close friends of Jones, visited the White House yesterday. They would not discuss labor elements.

Perennial Candidate Seeking Place on Liquor Control Board

Harrisburg, Jan. 18.—Rumors are circulating in Harrisburg that the long standing vacancy on the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board would soon be filled by Governor Martin. A score of names were mentioned for the post but insiders were willing to lay odds that former Governor Arthur H. James, defeated for the Superior Court bench last November, was the real "dark horse."

Since the opening of the legislature, speculation has been running high on Capitol Hill on the selection of a party big wig to fill the position. Since W. Seagriff Stuart was injured in an automobile crash last month, the administrative work of the Board has been carried by Chairman Frederick T. Gelde.

Two weeks ago, G. Harold Watkins and Edgar Baird, Jr., were leading candidates for the post. However, Watkins was reported to have withdrawn from the race and Baird, with many interests in Philadelphia Republican politics, was undecided on accepting an appointment.

James is a perennial candidate for a job on the public payroll. During the closing days of his term as governor, he strongly supported Martin as his successor. Martin paid off by naming James to a vacancy on the Superior Court bench—a seat he was most reluctant to give up while running for the governorship. James was a victim of the Democratic sweep last November and insiders say that Martin is grooming the former jurist for the liquor board post.

Several other prominent party figures are in the race for the job. One candidate is widely-known in liquor circles and has powerful political support.

NYC Railroad Is Opened For Whole Length

The Valley Branch of the New York Central running from Dunkirk to Titusville has now been opened up from end to end and freight trains are maintaining schedules. The closure of this branch by the heavy snow storm was for the longest time in the history of the branch. For 12 days not a train was running into Titusville over the road.

Last Saturday an engine crew got out of Titusville and arrived in Warren due to the fact that several cars of coal for Titusville plants and schools were tied up in Warren yards. With an engine from Warren the coal train was doubleheaded into Titusville. Work of opening the tracks then proceeded rapidly. On the Dunkirk end of the line snow and ice had the line effectively tied up. With scores of men the ice was chipped off and the drifts were bucked out with a rotary plow.

The freight over the Valley branch is moving well and freight east is being moved through the Lehigh line as the Gardenville yards of the New York Central lines are still snow bound. East bound freight on the New York Central consigned to Warren is arriving in good shape.

Army Medical Corps In Need Of Recruits

Anne Joan and Angela Julia Krizanik, the Corry twins who created Erie WAC history when they became the first set of twins to enlist through the Erie WAC Recruiting Office, reported for active duty Wednesday in the Women's Army Corps. They appeared at the WAC Recruiting Office in Pittsburgh, and from there they will proceed to Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., for six weeks of basic training. After completion of their basic training period, the twins will be enrolled in the Army's Surgical Technician School.

Anne and Angela, in joining the Medical Department, are helping to swell the ranks in a field where women are sorely needed. As the number of our battle casualties continues to grow, medical workers are required in ever increasing numbers. Categories in which Wacs are needed are: Pharmacist, psychiatric social worker, dental laboratory technician, dental technician (chair asst.), X-ray technician, medical stenographer, medical technician, surgical technician.

If a woman can qualify for a direct assignment in one of these categories, she will, upon completion of six weeks' basic training, be sent for service at one of the Army's medical installations. Otherwise, she may be recommended for a 12 weeks' course at a medical school of the Army and upon completion receive her assignment. Thousands of women are needed for this work.

Anne and Angela resided in Erie while they worked at Lord Mfg. Co. for the past year and one-half. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Krizanik, RFD No. 1, Corry. The twins are graduates of Corry High School. Two brothers, Mark and John, are privates first class in the Army, and a brother-in-law, Henry Petrosky, is a chief petty officer in the Navy.

For further information about the WAC and its work, write to the WAC Recruiting Office, 125 Federal Court House, Erie, or visit the weekly WAC office on Tuesday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. in Warren.

PORK SHOULDER, LOIN RATES CUT

Ceiling prices on certain wholesale pork cuts have been reduced by one-half to one cent a pound throughout the country and the reduction will be passed on to consumers, the Office of Price Administration announced Wednesday.

Effective Jan. 22, the ceiling on imported canned hams has also been reduced to $47 per hundred weight from $54. The domestic wholesale pork cuts, reduced in price are smoked loins and rough shoulders, neck bone-in.

OPA also announced an amendment to regulations whereby men

Cold Night Makes Warren Folk Shiver

Warren county in common with most of the section did a bit of shivering as the mercury slid down and down. This morning about town the temperature stood at 8 below zero. Trees were covered with frost and presented a most beautiful picture as the sun rose and caused them to glisten in the crisp air.

On Morrison Run where Art Blowers maintains the icest "ice-box" in the whole section the mercury touched 24 below which was too cold for comfort. Arch reported this morning that small rabbits leaped up on the window sill of his kitchen where rays from his stove warmed the glass and cuddled down. They seemed to enjoy the warmth and slept contentedly on the window sill when the Blowers family began stirring their buckwheat cakes this morning.

Plumbers were kept on the jump as many pipes were frozen and the boys with the wrenches were in great demand.

serving in the Merchant Marine, with five or more weeks of active sea-going duty, will be granted furlough gasoline rations.

Water Co. Is Kept Busy By False Reports

During the past few days when Old Sol got busy doing some thawing about town, pools of water have gathered in many places and have caused reports to pour into the water company office to the effect that pipes were broken. This week the employees have been traveling about the town making tests for broken lines.

Yesterday one report came from the police that a line had broken on an East Side street. Water was standing on a sidewalk and looked suspicious. Tests were made on lines and mains and no leak could be found. Finally a hole was dug and tests made there. No leak could be found and the hole was filled up.

The pay-off came when a woman got her car stuck in the hole and had to hire a garage man to pull her out and then collected off the water company the cost of the garage service.

John Q. Public Just Doesn't Scan Budget

Old John Q. Public, who pays the bills and tries to take it off his income tax, just doesn't seem to give a tinker's darn about the borough budget. The proposed budget, carrying the tidy sum of about $175,000, was introduced at the last council meeting and is now on file at the city clerk's office. However, while it is the bounden duty of Mr. Taxpayer to call and scan the budget, he hasn't called yet. The city clerk reported this morning that not one taxpayer had called to get a look at the document.

This, however, is nothing new, as the city clerk reports that in former years the budget has never caused anyone, except on one or two occasions, to call and read the document.

Employees of the city other than those on salaries are somewhat peeved over the fact that under the ordinance passed by council relative to sick leaves and vacations only salaried employees are eligible for vacations and leaves. They claim they should be considered in the matter and should be treated equally well, and that they are going to do something about it. This matter will undoubtedly come up for consideration at the next council meeting.

Stray Leaves From Notebook Of Reporter About Town

Over in Central Fire station the new iron lung which was recently presented to the city by the Federated Clubs is being made ready for use and the firemen will soon be instructed in how to apply and use it. The apparatus consists of a metal frame which fits about the body and this is in three sizes for children and large and small persons. The upper and lower ends of the contraption have rubber applied in such a manner that air is not allowed to escape once it is in place. A small motor drives the pump which supplies air to the lung. Once in use it does all the work that was formerly done by artificial respiration.

"It really makes you breathe," said Russell Davis. The firemen had been placed in the machine and it was being tried out. "You can't help breathing," said Davis. "It just takes hold of you and I tried to hold my breath while it was operating but it was impossible."

And just to make it more intricate an alarm came in while Davis was being used as a guinea pig and he had a heck of a time getting unfettered and onto the truck before it pulled away from him. "Anyhow it works!" said Davis.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a youngster—Now her backache is better. Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. There were other features, too, but Fatima was the one most talked about. Those who went in the afternoon passed the word around and boy was there a crowd out at night. They do say as how some of the old boys attended both performances.

Something new has been added. To the purchase of cigarettes known as the "Stoop Variety," cause the merchants stoops under the counter to get 'em "Grab" has been added. Ever see Warren wake up in the morning? It really is some sight and in event you haven't been rolling out of the feathers shortly after 6 o'clock it might prove of interest. First and foremost Jerry Park trundles around in the police car and turns on the traffic lights and sets them twinkling in the half light of the morning.

Then Jerry hies to the police station and does a bit of shaving. He really peels 'em off close. In the meantime Herman Boklund does a mess of cleaning and dusting in the city building so that it always looks spic and span.

The change of shifts at the local war plants fills the streets with cars and they do crowd the speed limits as they get up and down Fourth and Pennsylvania avenues. The trucks from the Butterkrust loaded with bread and cakes take off for the hinterland and the drivers nearly all stop for coffee and donuts at the Texas. The panel delivery trucks come rolling out the alley near the New York restaurant. The R. W. Norris trucks loaded with automobile parts, etc., also roll out bright and early. Ray Bimber arrives at his emporium with eyes filled with sleep and gets ready to tell the folks "no cigarettes" and to pass 'em out a Post Gazette hot off the trucks from Pittsburgh.

One by one the lights in the stores flash on and Frank Dunham comes hustling along to get his razors honed and ready for recalcitrant beards when the shop opens at 8 o'clock. By 8:30 the old town is really getting into swing and the gals of the New Process and the Sylvania come rushing along ready for another day.

Lamplighter of Broadway Gives White Way a Glimmer of Glamor

Jake Starr's 154-foot Varga girl, advertising a Broadway musical, was world's largest pin-up.

By JAMES THRASHER
NEA Staff Correspondent
New York, Jan. 13—Jake Starr is not what you would call a glamorous man. Nor, for that matter, is his partner, Ben Strauss. Their names seldom appear in the public prints. Yet for more than 40 years these two men have been among the chief contributors to the glamor of what is perhaps the world's most publicized thoroughfare.

Mr. Starr explains their contribution simply: "Broadway is a street where electric signs. We make the signs." Specifically, they design, manufacture and erect more than 90 per cent of all the spectacular displays on Broadway. They own 42 per cent of the street's choice sign locations. They have helped to glamorize the glamor girls from "Floralora" through Ziegfeld to the offerings of Mike Todd and Billy Rose. They have seen the bright lights change from gas to neon, and have watched them move up from 14th street to Times Square.

But Jake Starr doesn't get to see the actresses behind his signs. He's too busy. As treasurer and guiding mechanical genius of the Artkraft Strauss Sign Corp., he works 16 hours a day, seven days a week. He has no hobbies, and has never taken a vacation.

The average Broadway sign costs from $10,000 to $12,000, and Mr. Starr builds them to last a good 10 years. Sometimes this seems like wasted effort. Once the firm finished a big job for a hopeful producer on Saturday, and the show closed the following day.

Mr. Starr learned artistic integrity, among other things, from the man to whom he was apprenticed in his native Russia. This man made beautiful rubles, better and cheaper than those turned out by the imperial mint. So when the tsar's police finally picked him up for counterfeiting, the authorities offered him his freedom if he would tell them how he did it.

"What," said the counterfeiter, "and give away a secret worth millions? Never!" So off he went to spend the rest of his life in Siberia, while his young apprentice came to America.

Present jobs include the supervision of a lot of war work and the groundwork for what will be the biggest outdoor sign in America. Oddly enough, war and the blackout haven't brought a business slump to Artkraft Strauss. Quite the contrary.

They had to hustle, first of all, to find substitutes for critical materials, and figure out systems of mirrors and indirect lighting that would preserve a glimmer of Broadway's glamor without violating blackout regulations. Then came war orders, and the firm opened a second shop to make parts for tanks, ships and other vehicles of war.

Mr. Starr is also perfecting two war-interrupted miracles of his craft. One is the "newsograph," similar to present-day running electric signs except that it can be operated and changed as fast as a man can teletype. The other is the "wondersign," which, with the help of 27,000 bulbs and 500,000 electrical connections, will dash off electrical pictures with all the slap-dash virtuosity of an old-time lyceum entertainer giving chalk talks.

Mr. Starr's labors aren't con-finer to his own neighborhood. One of his signs was down over the Andes to a movie theater in Bogota, Columbia. Another, sailed by chartered ship to Iceland. (Mr. Starr never quite figured that one out.)

But you get the impression that Jake Starr's heart belongs to Mazda Alley, even if he never gets to see its shows. Nothing pleases him more than to be called the Lamplighter of Broadway.

COUNTY HONORED BY NAVY

According to a special dispatch arriving from headquarters of the Fourth Naval District in Philadelphia, Warren county has been honored by the Navy Department by having a fleet ship named after it.

The names of counties have been selected for 310 transports and cargo vessels in keeping with the Navy custom of assigning names of places in the United States to many classes of naval vessels.

The transport and cargo vessels are the Navy's prime movers of men and materials to our battlefronts. Some of these ships are classed as attack transports and attack cargo ship. These are heavily armed and have been developed for amphibious assaults on Japanese-held bases in the Pacific.

An attack transport carries a complete combat team of many hundreds of men with all the attack equipment needed to gain and hold a beachhead. The attack cargo vessels bring in the thousands of tons of food supplies, ammunition, vehicles, gasoline and medical supplies required to maintain combat units after they have landed.

The assault ships operate as part of a task force of which they are the heart. They are protected by task groups of battleships, carriers, cruisers and destroyers.

After the big guns and planes have softened up an enemy stronghold, and the initial waves of attacking troops have landed in smaller landing craft, the cargo ships and transports move in and send their men and materials ashore in small, shallow-draft landing boats.

MR. VANDENBERG'S SPEECH

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Republican and pre-war isolationist, helped launch the senate's foreign policy debate with a speech that merits the attention and admiration of all friends of international postwar peace.

He was specific. He proposed an immediate treaty among the leading powers to demilitarize Germany and Japan permanently. This, he suggested, would remove the fear of Axis militarism and the doubt of eventual American co-operation which apparently are driving Britain and Russia toward a course of unilateral and bilateral agreements, and power politics.

He was practical. He proposed to allow the president prompt authorization of force to carry out the treaty. He also proposed eventual functions of the Dumbarton Oaks plan calculated to cancel some foreseeable objections by "perfectionist" colleagues in the senate.

And, as an influential Republican, he charted a course of unity and action for his party. His program is one of positive accomplishment, not negative opposition. It promises a willing, constructive partnership by the senate minority in the great and fateful work ahead.

In short, Mr. Vandenberg probably did a lot to renew a lot of wavering faith in the congress of the United States.

The death of Hon. D. U. Arird Wednesday morning, following a long illness, brings to an end an energetic career as a public servant whose loyal interest to the community was never questioned. Judge Arird was one of the best informed men of his day, a thorough and experienced lawyer and jurist, vigorous in the statement of his beliefs and devoted to his profession. Those who differed with him during the years respected his viewpoints, knowing that it was his way of looking at the same question in which loyal citizens are ever interested. Judge Arird was the last of his family. His passing recalls to older residents the deep attachment that existed between Judge Arird and his brother Clemons D., who held the position of county superintendent of schools at the time of his death in 1887.

The capture of Warsaw is one of the most important victories of the entire World War, for this ancient cross-roads of eastern Europe has been the anchor of Hitler's Vistula line—last powerful defensive position between the Russians and the Reich. Now the whole 250-mile Vistula front has collapsed and the Germans are reeling back. This means, barring miracles, that the Germans must run for their defenses on the Oder river inside their own frontier. Such a wholesale retreat is one of the most dangerous operations of war, and disaster hovers over it like a vulture.

Safety Program For Pedestrians

Harrisburg, Jan. 18—Governor Martin has urged all safety and civic organizations, motor clubs and the general public to participate in the Pedestrian Protection Program being sponsored by Pennsylvania and twelve other eastern states.

Calling attention to the 1944 traffic casualty totals in Pennsylvania, the Governor said 1,244 persons were killed and 30,442 injured in 43,086 motor vehicle accidents. The dead included 672 pedestrians and 7,057 of the injured were pedestrians.

In his statement the Governor said: "A majority of the casualties were war workers. Loss of life at all times, is tragic, but it becomes more so at this critical hour in the life of our Nation. We cannot afford the loss of a single hand at the well of production."

"Pedestrian accidents have become a major phase of the traffic safety problem. A steady increase in pedestrian fatalities and injuries throughout the Nation has created an alarming situation. The trend must be stemmed and turned the other way."

Landlord Seeking Rent Boosts Given Methods By Erie Board

As of January 1, 1945, 2,871 petitions for rent increases have been received, and 1,407 of them granted in the Erie and Warren County Defense-Rental Areas since OPA put control of residential rents into effect here, Area Rent Director Anderson announced today.

Of this total a considerable number have been granted under the provisions affording a landlord relief when he has made a major capital improvement to his property.

To expedite the processing of petitions under this adjustment provision, Anderson asked that landlords in preparing their petitions give full and complete details of the improvement made.

As one example of what might constitute a major capital improvement, the complete rehabilitation of a dwelling unit or an apartment house was cited. "Where this has been done," Anderson said, "the landlord should state in his petition the amount of money he spent in the rehabilitation. He should give full details of how the money was spent, such as 'new roof,' 're-built cellar walls,' 're-wiring,' 'complete re-decoration.'"

"Complete details will enable the Rent Office to process the petition quickly eliminating unnecessary delay which would be occasioned if the Rent Office has to request additional information."

By themselves the items enumerated above would not constitute a major capital improvement, but would be considered ordinary maintenance and repair. It is where the character of the structure is changed by the rehabilitation, placing the structure into a higher rental range that qualifies a landlord to petition for a rent increase.

The Rent Director also reminded landlords that there are two provisions in the Rent Regulations covering cases where a major capital improvement has been made. One of these applies when the improvement has been made after the effective date of the Rent Regulation which was October 1, 1942 for this area. The other applies where the improvement was made before the maximum rent date, March 1, 1942, but a lease or other rental agreement was in force at the time the improvement was completed, continuing in force on the maximum rent date, preventing the landlord from increasing the rent.

Other examples of a major capital improvement, as against ordinary repair, replacement and maintenance would be the addition of one or more rooms by finishing the attic of a house, or the installation of a second bathroom.

YOUNGSVILLE NEWS

Youngsville, Jan. 17—Rev. Dwight Jack was the speaker Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the Parent Teacher's Association in the high school Assembly Auditorium. Mrs. Elton Barton presided at the business session. Devotionals were also conducted.

Rev. Mr. Jack, Methodist pastor spoke of the Three-fold triangle of Democracy, the home, the school and the church. Each of these influences are needed in the development of character in youth and there are many ways in which they may co-operate in bringing ideal conditions to our land.

SERVICE CLUB

At the January meeting of the Youngsville Service Club letters were read from 60 local boys scattered all over the world. Each letter had something in common, namely appreciation for the work and gifts of the local service club. Most of these letters were thank you's for the Christmas gifts sent out.

Air Mail letter paper and air mail stamps were sent out this month to 149 boys overseas. The February gifts will be sent to boys in this country. It will be noted that the number of local boys overseas is shown to be growing with each report.

The pastor conducted the installation of officers for 1945. It was decided to combine the February meeting with the World Day of Prayer observance on February 16, the gathering to be held at the church, with Mrs. Josephine Larsen and Mrs. Mildred Arthur as the hostesses.

Several messages were read from boys in service and from shut-ins, expressing thanks for Christmas boxes sent them by the group. The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. Schlick.

Fine Program at Dinner-Meeting of Presbyterian Units

About 75 members of the Spinster and Jefferson Men's Bible Classes of First Presbyterian church attended the joint tureen dinner-meeting held last evening at the church.

Harold Banghart led group singing at the table, with Mrs. W. R. Carlin accompanying at the piano. Also at this time was an interesting "Know Your Neighbor" contest conducted by Ross Carlson and won by Mrs. Banghart, Mrs. Wilson Waters and Mrs. John McLaughlin.

Adjourning to the parlors, the group was addressed by the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Cruickshank, of North Warren, who spent three months of the past summer at army camps in the south. Sent by the Presbyterian Church of America, Rev. Cruickshank's word was as aide to army chaplains. Mrs. Cruickshank spoke highly of the treatment afforded men at the USO centers and among many interesting facts related by her husband which was the many instances in which boys needing counsel came to him because he was in civilian attire and reminded them of their own home town pastors. The couple received many expressions of thanks for their contribution to the program at the close of the evening.

Concluding, Harold Hampson conducted an alphabetical Bible quiz between the two classes, outcome of which has not yet been definitely established.

Much of the success of the dinner preceding the program was due to the efforts of the following Spinster Class committee: Martha Swick, Mrs. Swartz, Nell Milenius, Mrs. E. E. Koebley and Ethel Goal.

American Grandmother Lavishes Her Love and Care On Baby Flown From England By an Army Transport

HOWDY, FOLKS! Kenneth Barry Maloney surveys his world while angora kitten, LeRoy, stands guard.

THE WATER'S FINE! Kenneth enjoys his bath.

By KATHRYN UMPHREY

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Safe from buzz bombs and war dangers of Europe, eight-months-old Kenneth Barry Maloney, the war orphan who recently was flown to this country from England, is thriving in America to the tune of a couple of new teeth and an added three pounds. When interviewed, the plump blue-eyed youngster uttered vigorous baby gurgles and definite were more interested in the new white shoes than in an account of his sensational flight, via army transport plane.

For the time when he will be interested, however, his grandparents have a scrapbook ready for him, along with one that belonged to his father, Lt. Kenneth Maloney, U. S. Army Airforce pilot, who was killed over England before the infant was born. His English mother died in childbirth, and his maternal grandparents were killed when bombs struck their home.

Enough red tape to reach from England to America was untangled before the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney, of Grand Rapids, were able to have the baby brought here. In just a few more months now he will be their legally adopted son.

In view of all his past excitement, sometimes Kenny will peer over the edge of his bassinet and yawn as if to say "This is pretty dull." But he is the only one in the household who finds it so. Ever since his grandmother went tearing off to New York in October to collect him from the Red Cross, things have been different.

Not that a baby in the Maloney house is a new experience. They have raised their own four children and at least five others. Kenneth has his own room and a playroom for himself, his Uncle John, aged 7, and his two-year-old cousin, Terry Michael Eardly, whose father is overseas.

"He is such a good baby, but he has a lot of spirit," Mrs. Maloney said while loosening Kenny's grip on the new kitten's tail. The kitten, named LeRoy, is Kenny's favorite gift, presented by his great-grandmother, Mrs. Cynthia Maloney, 75. When he gets a little bigger he will be able to play with his own dog, too—a collie pup named Bonnie. In addition, there are three other dogs and one more cat in the household.

Since his arrival, Kenny has learned to sit up and has added a rolling creep to his accomplishments.

Next to eating, his favorite sport is splashing water all over the person who bathes him—in fact, he enjoys his bath so much that they often put him in the big tub so he can make more noise.

A firm friend of photographers, the baby breaks out with a broad grin whenever he spies a camera. It probably is this habit which has captivated so much of America, for every mail brings letters and gifts to the baby.

Admiral's Wife Seeks Monument for Flags

By ANN STEVICK
Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—When the boys get home from the high seas and the foxholes they should be able to see and bring their children to see the flags they fought under displayed in a place of honor specially built for the purpose, says Mrs. Thomas B. Richey, flag-fancier and authority on their history and preservation.

Mrs. Richey is the wife of Rear Admiral Thomas B. Richey, now stationed in Washington, and she's stumping the neighborhood to get people interested in a national monument to display the country's honored flags. Mrs. Richey is an avowed flag-lover. You'd have to be to stitch eight hours a day for three weeks making the shreds of an 1804 flag into a triumphant whole, strong enough to hang on display for years, stitched with an intricately precise and knowing net stitch that suspends all the weight on a backing of the most durable Irish linen.

This is but one of the 5000 flags this gracious lady with the bright red hair and soft voice has helped to preserve. She grew up surrounded by the flag-fixing activities of her mother, Mrs. Amelia Fowler, whose Boston home was a studio for a life work with flags. Mrs. Fowler started out studying the Bayeux tapestry and branched into creating original stitches still used by Mrs. Richey, who as Katherine Fowler was so much interested in needlework.

When in 1920 her mother died, just as Massachusetts passed an act providing for the preservation of all state flags, Mrs. Richey was called from California, where her husband was stationed, to take up her mother's work. She's been at it a good deal of the time since. She presided over a large flag workshop in the New York naval station, and means to set up such a studio with a staff of expert needlewomen in Washington, as soon as she gets an article on original needlecraft creations and a book on the history of flags out of the way. Her projects operate on various Congressional and state appropriations.

One of Mrs. Richey's most elaborate restoration jobs was done on the flag given to New York's 7th Regiment by the city of Washington in gratitude for protection during the Civil War. There were double layers of cloth, one yellow and one blue, glued together in an effort at preservation. Mrs. Richey got the layers apart, covered each with the fine transparent gauze she imports for the purpose and stitched them together so that stitches on one side matched the yellow cloth, on the other the blue.

by some kind of needle witchcraft beyond the layman's description. Mrs. Richey is about to start mounting the flag of the USS Dakota, known as Battleship X in the secrecy period after Pearl Harbor. It will be a big job to place the shaggy stars, stitched around the burnt and frayed stripes. But as Mrs. Richey unfolded the browned flag smelling of shell smoke, glared at the desolation and muttered, "Imagine an American flag in that condition," one felt sure it would shape up under her deft hands in short order.

The ride will start and end at the activities building, with refreshments planned to top off the evening. This same club, it is recalled, invited all Beaky girls to a skating party last Friday evening.

All Girl Reserves, as junior members of the YWCA, were invited to attend the annual YW meeting this Tuesday and for that reason there was no ring committee meeting. The next meeting of this group will be held January 29, when the topic will be "Loyal Friends."

At the last meeting of Freshmen Girls, plans were made for a "sock jump" to be held in the near future. This event will be in the nature of an open house for all freshman girls and boys.

A skating-outing for their next meeting and a Valentine party at the YW are on the schedule for the North Warren Club.

High School Girls' Club has a "date party" at Jefferson up its sleeve for January 24 and is planning to fill it with bags at Red Cross headquarters and to assemble a USO Scrapbook as service projects for 1945.

The cabinet urges all Junior and Senior Girls' Club members to be present at the meeting January 22 in order to vote on changes made in revising the constitution.

PAK Planning For Another Service Sunday Evening

The worship team of Club 17, under the direction of Rector Beecher M. Rutledge, of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church, planned and conducted an impressive religious service for members of the PAK last Sunday night. The service, held in the main auditorium of the First Presbyterian church, was based on a number of the most famous religious paintings depicting scenes from the life of Christ.

Next Sunday evening at 6:45, another religious service built around one of the famous cathedral films, "Who Is My Neighbor?" will be held in the Sunday school auditorium of the same church. Charles Cochran will be the leader for this service, assisted by Marie Kamerer. The PAK Orchestra, under the direction of John Knapp, will play.

Preceding the service, members of the PAK will hold a 6:15 tureen supper in the church dining room and all attending are asked to bring a tureen. The PAK Orchestra and Westminster Chorists will rehearse at their usual times.

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College School Of Agriculture

Oat Yields Improved—Three recently developed oat varieties—Viola, Tama and Boone—surpassed standard varieties in yield in demonstrations conducted last summer on Pennsylvania farms under supervision of extension agronomists of the Pennsylvania State College. Of the three, Viola gave the best performance. Seed is now available.

Potato Disease Spreading—Ring rot, highly infectious potato disease, is spreading to new areas each year. Plant pathologists at the Pennsylvania State College urge planting only disease free seed and the disinfecting of all utensils and equipment used in planting, including containers, gloves, and knives.

Ewes Need Attention—A light grain feed, such as oats and corn, together with bran and good roughage, will help build up underweight ewes in winter quarters, points out William B. McConnell, extension livestock specialist at the Pennsylvania State College.

Dairy Herds Improved—Bull Associations in Pennsylvania have produced 587 sires and 7,336 females for the development and improvement of herds, reports R. R. Welch, extension dairy specialist at the Pennsylvania State College.

Males for the development and improvement of herds, reports R. R. Welch, extension dairy specialist at the Pennsylvania State College.

Mulch Strawberries—Mulch may still be applied to strawberry plants to good advantage—even with snow on the ground, report extension fruit specialists at the Pennsylvania State College. Wheat straw is best.

Keep Best Cows—If feed supplies shrink, dairymen may find it more profitable to cull their herd than buy feed—keeping the best producers, remind extension dairy specialists at Penn State College.

Vegetable Short Course—The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture will conduct a vegetable plant short course Jan. 24-25.

Mindodo, seventh in size of the Philippine islands, has remained one of the least developed of the large islands of the group.

Dime Box Is First Place to Fill Its "March of Dimes" Quota

Here is the main steam of Dime Box, Tex., whose citizens lead the nation in the March of Dimes.

By NEA Service

Dime Box, Tex., Jan. 18.—(P)—The annual March of Dimes appeal began officially on January 14, but not in Dime Box, Tex., where the Postmaster is appropriately named David Franklin Stamp.

Dime Box jumped the gun. With a name like that, the town's 350 residents decided they should set an example. So they started to line up 100 per cent community contributions a month ahead. Their quota will be sent to the White House as an opener for the national appeal for funds to fight infantile paralysis.

Infantile paralysis is a real and personal matter to the citizens of Dime Box, Tex. They have had their share of victims, stricken in epidemics that have swept the country since the town's inception in 1878. They are familiar with the work of The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in caring for polio victims and consider it, in their own words, "a mighty fine thing."

A. W. McClelland, 88, the town's oldest living resident, explained how Dime Box came by its unique name. Back in '78 when the local settlement was Browns Mill, folks used to leave a dime in a box at the grist mill, along with a shopping list. On his twice-a-week trips to Giddings, the mailman also would take the lists and do the community's shopping. The dime was his fee for the service.

That "dime box" became the local news and trading post. When, through postal mixups with the town of Brownsville, the community was asked if they'd consider a change of name, Browns Mill just naturally became "Dime Box."

These enterprising Texans are proud of their town's unusual name, as well they may be; it's the number one town in the fight against the nation's most baffling disease, infantile paralysis.

That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store. (adv.)

No Man Under 30 Physically Fit Now Safe From Induction

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 17.—(P)—This may make a lot of men under 30 jittery, but it's something to remember: No man under 30, physically fit, is now safe from his draft board.

Each man's case will depend on his individual draft board, which still is free to use its own judgment in drafting or deferring him. The boards haven't been told they must follow the government's new list of critical and essential activities. They've been asked to follow it. Actually, most boards probably most boards will be guided by the list.

Here's the background:

The government last February published a list of 35 essential activities, ranging from farming to school teaching.

When a draft board had to fill its quota, a man not engaged in a job on the list was draft-halt right then.

If he was on the essential list, the board checked to see how essential he was. He was deferred according to his essentiality.

Military draft calls dropped in May and, because the armed services wanted the youngest men possible, draft boards were told to concentrate on men under 28.

That's changed now. Now draft boards have been told to concentrate on all men under 30 and to tighten up on the reasons for deferring them.

But the government has gone over that list of 35 essential activities.

It has left the list intact. The same 35 activities remain essential. But there was this change: Some of those 35 activities now are classified not only as essential, but critical, too.

So, with the new list published and in order to minimize damage to the war effort, War Mobilizer Byrnes has asked Selective Service officials to ask draft boards to draft men in this order:

1. Men not working in any activity on the list. For instance, a pool room handyman.
2. Men in relatively unimportant jobs in activities listed as essential only.
3. Men working in relatively unimportant jobs in critical activities.
4. Men in relatively more important jobs in essential but not critical activities.
5. Men in more important jobs in critical activities.

new medicines that is now being used. The high school students that were guests were Bert Lyle and Rose Konestoba.

Last week's meeting, Pfc. Lyle J. Slack USMC was the speaker. The high school guests were Bert Lyle, Rose Konestoba and Ruth Gustafson. Other guests were H. L. Bair, W. J. Summerville of Warren and Oliver S. Hickman, of Harrisburg, who visited the Township schools.

Robert Petty Again Gets In County News

Robert Petty, Youngsville man, who has many times been in the news for various escapades, was removed from the county jail to the Warren General Hospital last evening. Petty evinced signs of appendicitis last evening shortly after 6:30 and a physician summoned ordered him removed to the hospital. Attaches of the sheriff's office spent the night at the fellow's bedside on guard. A blood count will be made today and if necessary an operation will follow.

Petty was arrested some time ago on a charge of passing bouncing checks at a local jewelry store and after a hearing was lodged in jail. Then he began the weaving of a series of tales relative to various robberies about the county and described how the Irvine Inn had been entered and how the gas station just outside the borough line had been broken into. He was willing to oblige on several others but investigation showed his tales were purely imaginative. Hence he was taken away to the State Hospital for observation. After 30 days there he was returned to the county jail this week and now he professes to be sick. It is thought that he may be feigning the illness.

As soon as possible he will be taken into court for sentence and then he will be able to tell his tales to officials at some institution of the state.

State Hospital Exonerated In Death Probe

A joint investigation just concluded by officials of Warren and Jefferson counties has completely dissipated any suspicion that violence may have contributed to the death of John Favorite, a patient, who passed away at the local institution last Saturday evening.

Favorite, who was admitted from Sykesville in March, 1943, died Saturday night under circumstances which indicated the demise was from natural causes. After the body had been released Sunday to a Sykesville undertaker, however, certain statements were made by attendants and patients indicating that methods may have been used in restraining the patient, which may have contributed to his death. Hospital officials called in District Attorney J. H. Goldstein and Coroner Ed Lowrey, and it was decided to solicit co-operation of the Jefferson county officials in securing an autopsy.

The autopsy was held in the Reed funeral home in Sykesville Tuesday, performed by Dr. Samuel Meigs Beyer, of Punksutawney, assisted by Dr. Jack A. Wolford, of the Warren State Hospital staff. Also in attendance were Fred W. Beyer, coroner of Jefferson county, Punksutawney; Pvt. Paul A. Lanzo, of the state police at Punksutawney; William A. Sykes, district attorney, Brookville; Sheriff L. E. Linder and District Attorney J. H. Goldstein, Warren; William Walter, supervisor, and Dr. Leonard Rosenzweig, of the Warren State Hospital.

Upon the conclusion of the autopsy, Dr. Beyer reported that in his opinion the patient could have died of acute dilatation of the heart and exhaustion as a result of his dementia praecox, catatonic state. He further reported that he was certain that nothing was done to the man of a violent nature, from the autopsy findings.

Funeral services for the patient were held this morning at nine o'clock at the Sykesville Roman Catholic church. Interment was made in the Soldier Hill cemetery there.

Chairmen for the March of Dimes Campaign Announced

Miss Ethel Hodges, county chairman for the March of Dimes, has announced the chairmen of local committees which will conduct the campaign in county towns. In most communities, tag day will be held on Saturday, January 20.

Chairmen are as follows: Lander, Mrs. Edna Burgett; Lottsville and Bear Lake, Mrs. Allen Baker; North Warren, Mrs. F. M. Geer; Russell, Mrs. H. T. Moll; Sugar Grove, Mrs. Scott Stuart Jr.; Pittsfield, Mrs. Dorothy Simpson; Tidoute, Mrs. Gordon I. Norton; Sheffield, Miss Mary Richwalsky; Youngsville, Mrs. Farnand Hubert.

In addition to these communities the following schools will participate in the campaign: Garland, Irvine, Irvinedale, Lincoln, Pleasant and Starbrick.

It is reported that 12,000 tags and more than 150 coin collectors are ready for Saturday's drive.

Placards have been distributed in Warren by Girl Scouts and in the county by the local committee. Nearly 200 letters have been prepared by Miss Alice Davis and mailed to business firms and individuals soliciting special gifts.

Miss Betty Gentilman has given demonstrations of the Kenny method of treatment for infantile paralysis at several Parent-Teacher Associations this week. These demonstrations are, without doubt, the most effective manner of interpreting the work of the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

With a little cooperation from the weather man, the March of Dimes on Saturday is sure to surpass the successful drives of past years, since the necessity for a fund to combat the ravages of infantile paralysis has been shown so clearly in our own community in recent months.

Annual Farm Meeting Was More Than Usually Successful

Bad roads undoubtedly held down to some extent the attendance at the annual meeting of the Warren County Agricultural Extension Association held at the Court House Wednesday. However there were about 60 interested persons in attendance at the morning session, and 60 gathered for the afternoon meeting. At the noon dinner one hundred and eleven persons were present including 30 Kiwanians and guests. As a whole the meeting was highly successful and worth while.

President Stanley Lawrence, of Youngsville, president of the group, presided at the morning session. He extended a welcome to all and invited the group to come to the front of the court room where it would be a little more "homey". The session was devoted to reports from various chairmen of groups and some highly interesting reports were given. Mrs. W. G. Ryan, of Lander spoke on Home Economics and 4-H Club projects and her report was of much value. Mrs. Orrie Beebe, of Warren spoke on "Nutrition"; Charles Camp on "Potato Projects"; Leon Whitley on "Corn and Oats and Variety Development"; Stanley Lawrence "4-H Pig Club and Wool Marketing"; Arnell Carter "Poultry Projects and the Akeley Capon Project" and C. C. Winans of Warren spoke on "Farm Labor". David Van Orsdale had a good report on "Forestry" and the use of the wood lot on the farms was brought up.

Thelma Fredergrast in charge of Home Economics in the county gave an interesting resume of the Home Economics program as it is being carried out in the county and of the splendid results which have been secured.

County Farm Agent Tritt spoke on "Agriculture" and he touched on many of the problems which will be held in her memory on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. G. G. Burke officiating, with interment in the Youngsville cemetery.

Friends may call anytime at the Young Funeral Home.

MRS. MAGNUS JOHNSON
Sheffield, Jan. 18—Johanna Carolina Johnson, widow of Magnus Johnson, died at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday at the home of her only daughter, Mrs. Hugo Rydgren, 210 North South street, Warren. She was born in Halmstad, Sweden, October 4, 1859, and came to Sheffield in 1881. She had been a member of the Swedish Lutheran church for 58 years and was active in its Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society. She was also a member of the Evening Star, Swedish lodge.

Besides her daughter, she leaves three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. August Hammer, Sheffield. Her husband and three children preceded her in death, two dying in infancy and a third, Felix, a few years ago.

Funeral services will be held from the Borden Funeral Home at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, Rev. Hans Pearson officiating and interment made in the local cemetery.

Boy Bandit Is Still Eluding State Officers

Alvin Harry Reid, Kane youth who was implicated in several robberies in this city several months ago, is still at large after escaping from the training school at Morgantown. Reid was sentenced to Morgantown by the Warren county court after he had escaped once from the Warren county jail and gave local officers a chase that ended in Ridgway.

Reid was employed at Morgantown about the farm and slipped away when no one was looking. Morgantown is but a short distance from Pittsburgh and it is thought the boy may be in that city. State police have placed a description on the teletype machine and every officer in the state is on a hunt for the youth.

He is a sulky young fellow and for a time officers felt he might try to reach this section where he has relatives. All police in this section are on the watch for the boy.

Ice Rink Draws Many Skaters; Enjoy Pastime

A large group of young people enjoyed the skating on Beaty Court last evening. The rink was flooded four times after the skaters left the ice, when the ice maintenance committee took advantage of the drop in temperature. The cooperation of the skaters is asked to avoid using the ice just after it is flooded until the ice is set. The ice is reported today as in fine condition for skating this afternoon and evening.

The hours today are from 3 to 6 in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 o'clock this evening. There will be adult supervision during that time. Plans are being worked out for special times when there will be music and hot chocolate for the skaters, each week.

Last evening there were three ice skaters from Kane who had started out looking for a good place to skate. When they arrived in Warren, they followed some young people who had skates over their shoulders and arrived at the illuminated rink at Beaty Court. The Kane skaters, Mrs. Naomi Jenkins, Miss Margaret Jenkins and Miss Lorraine Christenson, were enthusiastic in their praise of the arrangement which had been made with the Warren School board for the use of the court for ice skating purposes.

The Ice Activities Committee met last evening and selected captains for an Ice Hockey League, which will be announced tomorrow. The committee also blocked out plans for an ice show, which is planned for the latter part of February.

Dragons Attempt 2nd League Victory Against Titusville Invaders Tomorrow Evening

Joe Massa's cagers open up their weekend hostilities against the Titusville Rockets tomorrow night on the Beatty court at 8:30 p. m. in the local second league game of the season. The Rockets started out on the wrong foot this year, but have developed into a fairly good club, which was shown in their Tuesday night victory over Grove City, 29-16. The Warren-Titusville fray will initiate the Rockets to league play as the Dragons seek to eke out an eighth win of the season along with a second consecutive loop victory.

Having but two victories in the entire campaign, Art Brady's aggregation is somewhat leery as to the improved power of the Warren courtsters in tomorrow eve's meeting. Warren's defeat of the strong Meadville Bulldogs has put the Rockets in doubt as to their standing in the Section 2 title race, but Coach Brady asserts that the Rockets will come on the court with a thought of victory in mind and that the Massamen will have to battle every inch of the way before knocking off their opponents.

Love, Rocket football pacer, leads the Rocket attacks and will require plenty of attention from the local boys. Love paced the winning attack Tuesday night with eleven points, followed by his forward mate, Panas, who converted three goals for six points. The remainder of the Titusville lineup will include Anderson at center, Lowrie and Zahner at the guard posts.

Mentor Joe Massa will rely on Joe Scalise and Tom Juliano to handle the forward spots; big Al Babcock at the jump post; and lettermen Bob Hammerbeck and George Lucia at the defensive positions. Ray Reed, Vin Gray, and Jack Eaton loom as the most valuable substitutes in Friday's fray. Saturday, the Dragons complete their weekend activity at Jamestown.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Jan. 18.—(P)—It's time somebody wrote a piece about

Joe Lapchick . . . He deserves it, if for no other reason, because he's the basketball coach who usually sits on the bench during a game and generally remains quiet during the noisy disputes for which his colleagues are noted . . . Besides that, he's one of the most successful coaches in the business, off his record at St. John's of Brooklyn

. . . A big, bony looking fellow about six-feet-four, Joe never played college basketball . . . He came out of Public School 20 in Yonkers,

N. Y., to a semi-pro team, and then started playing pro basketball in 1919 with Holyoke, Mass.,

Schenectady, N. Y., and the Brooklyn Visitation in three different leagues . . . It was a good business, he explains. "You worked every night and when there was a conflict in dates you could spend

$125 on phone calls getting the managers to boost the price and sometimes pick up $30 or $40.

Higher Education

Lapchick joined the original

Celtics, probably the most famous pro club, in 1922, shifted to Cleveland five years later when the American League broke up the team

because it unbalanced the circuit, and then returned when the league was disbanded . . . He finally got to college as St. John's coach in 1936. "The first year the players were green as grass and I was greened," Joe explains. "But the same fellows made a 15-4 record their second season and 17-2 their third. Since then we've had a pretty good record." . . . St. John's is the only college that ever won the Metropolitan Invitation Tournament twice in succession while his better than pretty good.

Wear and Tear
A comparatively placid figure on the bench at Madison Square Garden, Lapchick doesn't follow the sliding or jumping technique generally used in playing the game from the sidelines . . . "All I do is cross my legs," he admits. "But when we get a tough decision that knee is liable to come up and hit me under the chin."

Cleaning The Cuff

Did you know that the first time baseball was called "our national game" was in a headline in the Philadelphia Item April 23, 1876, telling about the season opening?

. . . Mickey Walker's eleven-year-old son, Jimmy, is taking boxing lessons from George Wood, a Cranford, N. J., policeman who gave Mickey a couple of hard scraps in the old days. . . . When

George Preston Marshall let out that recent blast about Elmer Layden quitting as pro football commissioner to become a coach in the

All American conference, it started a lot of guys wondering why

Elmer didn't exercise some of his disciplinary powers as commissioner instead of taking refuge behind dignity . . . Jimmy Johnston is ready to start booking fights for

Lou Nova—as soon as Nova will admit his busted hand has healed.

Two Fast Games Scheduled In YMCA Cage Loop Tonight

As better play increases, so do the crowds. That's the story in a nutshell concerning the YMCA City cage loop, which sees its second night's activity of the first round tonight with two fast games on the slate.

In the first engagement tonight, the speedy and accurate Blomquist crew battles it out with the Sylvania five. The Blomquists are made up mostly of high schoolers and keep any opponent on the jump every minute of the game.

This crew is in hopes that they can again defeat the electricians, having done so in the warm-up round. The Sylvanians have developed into an accurate passing and shooting aggregation and are paced by lefthander Red Hand, former Mt. Jewett star, who is one of the deadliest shots in the league.

Young Billy Massa is also a valuable asset to the Sylvania five. In the nightcap, another bunch of youthful participants, the Baker quint, will attempt to upset the unbeaten record of Red Swanson's Struthers Wells courtsters. The Wellsmen have yet to be defeated and are set to add another win to their column tonight. Ted Kaminski, spark of the ironworkers, will be back in action tonight following a seven-day furlough from the Bull Hill camp.

So, don your hat and coat and give out with a little support. Those boys aren't up there just for their own sake, but to add some relaxation and fun to the fans. First game at 7:30 and the finale at 8:30.

Eagles Down Sheffield In Overtime Tilt

Youngsville's Eagles continued their march in the victory column Tuesday on the Eagles' home court by downing the fast Sheffield Wolverines, 32-31 in an overtime period. Bob Jewell's crew paced the field in the two-pointers but were matched by the Wolverines' accurate free throw average.

In the overtime period, Sheffield jumped ahead, 31-30, on a foul shot, but lost the encounter on Tubbs' last minute goal which ended the night's scoring.

County Tax Levy Not Yet Agreed Upon

County Commissioners in several of the counties of this section have announced the millage for their taxlevy for the coming year but in this county no announcement has as yet been made. Don Schuler, commissioners clerk stated this morning that the levy will not be made for some time until the commissioners have had an opportunity to pass on several matters under consideration. However it is not expected that there will be any change made.

Warren county is in fine financial condition and by arrangement of the sinking fund the bonds issued for road construction along in the '20s will be all paid off in 1948. These bonds carry a 4 1/2% rate of interest which is high and calls for a fairly large levy for the sinking fund purposes. The road bonds were issued when the orgy of road building hit the state and many roads were built. These have all been taken over by the state at present. Only two of the issues are yet outstanding.

Should no emergencies arise during the next three years requiring a bond issue the county will be free from bonded debt and in wonderful shape for post-war propositions.

Sales Head To Make Warren Headquarters

The appointment of Robert Beatty, formerly chief of Division C-War Production Board, as Sales Manager of the Tungsten and the Weld and Wire products of the

Warren and Towanda, Pa., plants of Sylvania Electric Products Inc., is announced by Don G. Mitchell, vice-president in charge of sales. Prior to his affiliation with the War Production Board, Mr. Beatty was sales engineer with the Driver-Harris Company and The Aluminum Company of America. ## Labor and Machine Shortage Deters Removal of Snow

Harrisburg, Jan. 18.—The Pennsylvania Department of Highways voluntarily assumed responsibility for keeping 1100 miles of roads open for winter traffic in 1921 and this winter of 1944-45 that obligation has increased to more than 20,000 miles, Secretary John U. Shroyer said.

This means that the 20,000 miles of "programmed" mileage includes the most heavily traveled main highways such as arteries leading over the State—north, east, south and west—to industrial plants, embarkation points and other areas dealing directly with the war effort.

After those 20,000 programmed miles (primary roads) have been cleared for traffic, highway forces seek to clear the remaining "un-programmed" 20,615 miles (secondary roads) and do so in the order of their importance such as openings of mail, milk, and school bus routes.

"And if we have the men and equipment—(some of our forces have been working in relays of 24-hour shifts)—we'll clear every last vestige of snow that impairs travel," Shroyer said.

"I am glad to say that every road on the programmed mileage has been cleared."

Pennsylvania, a pioneer State in this phase of transportation service is experiencing its most difficult year since inception of this programmed mileage due to labor shortages and old equipment which has been tested and gotten beyond the resources of the highway snow removal equipment.

The Secretary instructed all highway forces, including those in Erie County and from other sections who were moved in to augment the group in the northwest, to remain on the job until every road in Erie County is cleared of snow.

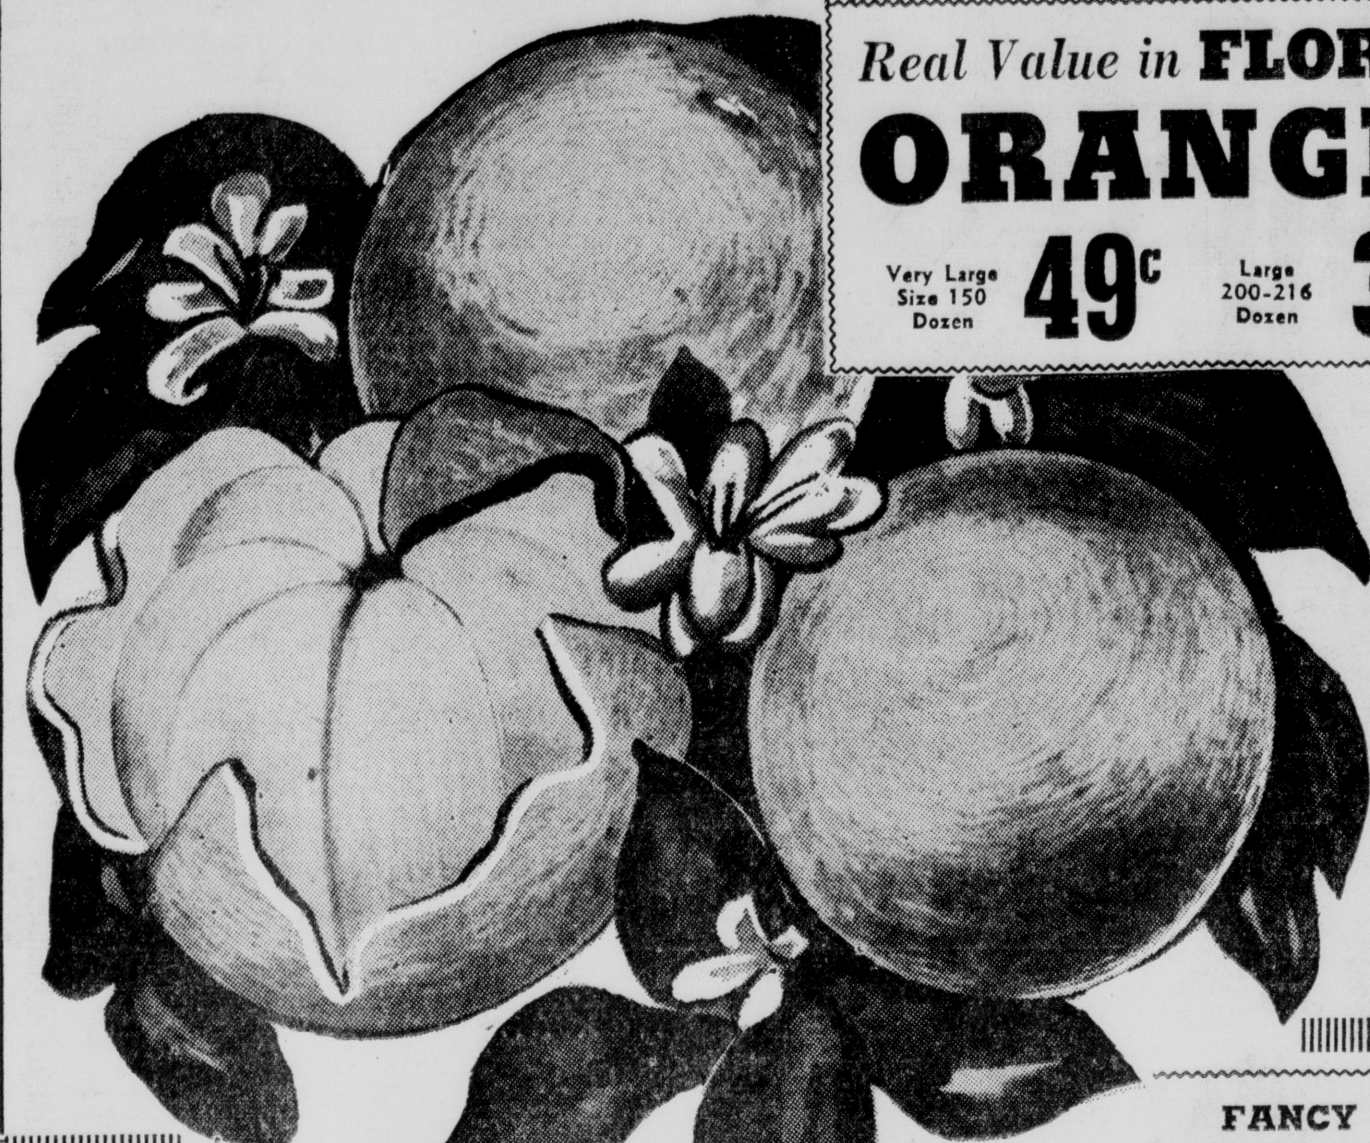

Secretary Shroyer announced that he had "started a request through" the WPB to buy additional snow fighting equipment for the Department.

Shroyer stated that he had been assured of rapid priority clearance by WPB. The secretary said that this meant only clearance and not delivery of the equipment.

Some of the new equipment ordered included 10 additional tractors for rotary plows, several "snogers," which are used for breaking and clearing drifts, and trucks of various tonnages.

BEHIND THE LINES

onto the pro athletes? There are thousands of men in the nation who are not serving in the armed forces who are not doing a tenth of what these pros are doing toward nation-wide morale. But they're placing these pros up as examples, and maybe as a warning to others not now in service who soon may be inducted under new rulings.

While on the subject of War Mobilization Director Byrnes, an idea is spreading throughout the nation today that Mr. Byrnes be named as the new commissioner of baseball, the successor to the late K. M. Landis. He has demonstrated in recent weeks in a series of important decisions that he has the tough, unwavering type of mind that baseball wants in its big boss. If baseball is looking for a trouble-shooter who will crack the whip over the game the way Judge Kanasaw Landis did, it might find it in Jimmy Byrnes. For the effect of his recent rulings, the "assistant president" has stirred baseball minded men to admire him, rather than hold a secret hat for him. Most diamond men believe that the period following the war will be trying, and that Landis' successor will have a job on his hands. Whether or not Mr. Byrnes would accept the baseball job, if offered. His name has not been formally discussed by the game's big wigs. And, too, he has no background as a player, but he knows what it's all about as a smart sports fan.

Rest assured, however, that there will be baseball in Warren next season, unless more drastic measures are taken to prohibit the game. The National Forge will undoubtedly have a team, and a good one. Those fellows are all working in defense plants and do not come under the "work or fight" ruling.

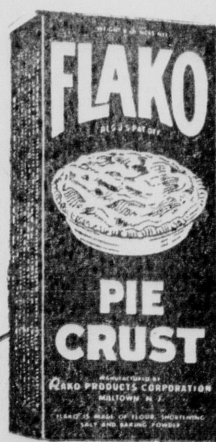

In pre-machine days, it took three-fourths of U. S. manpower to feed the nation.

PATTON'S TROOPS LAUNCH NEW DRIVE ON SOUTH SIDE OF BITTER ARDENNES SALIENT

Elements of Fourth and Fifth Infantry Divisions Cross Sure River Fifteen Miles North of City of Luxembourg

NAZIS TRAPPED BEFORE SIEGFRIED LINE MOPPED UP

Paris, Jan. 18.—(AP)—British troops advanced almost three miles into Germany today to near Hogen, center of a Reich district jutting into the Dutch Panhandle.

By JAMES M. LONG
Paris, Jan. 18.—(AP)—British troops invaded Germany at a new point today in a two and a half mile advance from Holland toward the Roer river, sweeping through four villages and reeling the Germans back with shellfire and bayonets.

Lt. George S. Patton's Third Army launched a new drive on the south side of the Ardennes salient. Elements of the Fourth and Fifth Infantry Divisions crossed the Sure river beginning at 4 a. m. in the Dieffrich area, 15 miles north of Luxembourg city and 18 southwest of the Siegfried line stronghold of Bitburg. The crossing was forced despite heavy mortar, machinegun and small arms fire.

In the Ardennes salient to the south, the U. S. First Army attacked less than four miles from St. Vith, four miles from the Reich. The Third Army mopped up Nazis trapped before the Siegfried line in Germany near Nennig, 12 miles south of Luxembourg city.

But above Strasbourg, the reinforced and increasingly aggressive Germans lengthened their narrow cross-Rhine bridgehead to nine miles and captured Stettin, 15 miles north-east of the Alsatian capital. The U. S. Army, however, won adjacent Sessenheim, fought into the streets of Herrlsheim and beat down attacks at Hatten.

U. S. LOSSES IN DECEMBER TOTAL 74,788

Report on Western Front Casualties Reveals Bloodiest Month of All U. S. Armies
20,815 ARE MISSING

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Jan. 18.—(AP)—American losses on the western front totaled 74,788 killed, wounded and missing in December, the bloodiest month of all for U. S. armies, it was disclosed today.

The Americans during December bore a heavy cost into the Aachen gap of the Siegfried line and then withstood the German offensive in the Belgian bulge.

The toll is exclusive of air force personnel. It was well above the casualties of the first month of invasion when the Americans stormed the Normandy beaches in June.

(Secretary of War Stimson said three days ago that American losses from Dec. 15 to Jan. 17 totaled 52,594 including 4,083 killed, 27,645 wounded and 20,856 missing. He said 40,000 were lost in the bulge and that German losses were 90,000. His estimate excluded the first two weeks of December, when the U. S. First and Ninth Armies were fighting costly battles on the Roer river and while the U. S. 3rd and 7th Armies were fighting into the German Saar and Palatinate.)

Exact casualties for June were not available here, but in the six weeks up to July 20, the date of the St. Lo breakthrough, they totaled 60,000.

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—American army casualties of 74,788 in December alone on the western front have brought the total from D-Day in June to Jan. 1 to 332,912.

Secretary of War Stimson, reported this today, said the total for that period included 54,562 killed, 232,672 wounded and 45,678 missing.

The 74,788 figure for December included 10,419 killed, 43,354 wounded and 20,815 missing. Most of the missing in December, Stimson said, are probably German prisoners.

Air Priority for Dog Called Regrettable Series of Errors

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said today that neither Col. Elliott Roosevelt nor the White House had asked for an air priority for a dog which displaced three service men from an army cargo plane.

Early termed the whole affair "a most regrettable combination of errors."

The dog was sent to Colonel Roosevelt's wife, actress Faye Emerson in Hollywood. When the plane carrying it reached Memphis, January 11, 300 pounds of high priority freight had to be put aboard, according to the war department, and a sailor, soldier and navy Seabee were put off to make the weight allowance. The English bull mastiff stayed aboard.

Appeal for Manpower Draft Spurs Congressional Chiefs

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Reversing an earlier decision, the house military committee today reopened its hearings on work-or-be-drafted legislation.

Chairman May (D-Ky) announced after a closed morning session that Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator, and Edward A. O'Neal, head of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be heard at a public hearing this afternoon.

The decision to hear the two was reached after farm representatives expressed fear to the committee that the legislation under consideration might adversely affect agriculture and tend to drive essential farm workers into war industry.

Despite the reopening of the hearings, May said he hoped the committee would agree by nightfall on the final draft of a bill. Prompt enactment was requested yesterday by President Roosevelt.

Still to be thrashed out behind closed doors are such vexing matters as what age groups should be affected by the legislation, what penalties should be imposed on violators, what union rights should be protected or waived in the proposed shifting of draft-deferred men from non-essential to essential jobs.

But there was almost unanimous agreement as the committee concluded more than a week of public hearings yesterday that some form of action is imperative immediately.

That the committee intended to lose no time acting was indicated by its sudden decision to close the hearings a day ahead of schedule after the president, General George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest J. King reduced to writing their requests for action.

To add force to his plea, the president sent May a joint letter from Marshall and King stressing the need for a minimum of 700,000 additional industrial workers "if (Turn to Page Eleven)

Dawn Raiders Hit Railyards Behind Front

London, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A small force of Flying Fortresses today bombed Kaiserlautern, an important German rail yard behind the Saar front.

One hundred Mustang fighters and 100 B-17's also made a tactical attack on a rail center west of Mannheim, about 30 miles behind the German lines.

RAF Bombers returned to the big German industrial center of Magdeburg with a new load of explosives just before dawn today and found the city still ablaze from the previous night's attack.

Striking about 5 a. m., the raiders caught the Germans by surprise, dropped their bomb loads and returned home without loss, the air ministry said.

The early morning raid signaled the sixth straight day of an all-out assault upon German fuel resources and vital war industries hundreds of miles behind the front lines.

The dawn raiders were identified by the air ministry as Mosquitos carrying two-ton blockbusters.

Foxburg Man Missing Three Years Is Safe

Foxburg, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Three years of prayer and hope were answered yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McHenry, when the postman brought a letter from their son, "missing in action" since the Japs overran the Philippines in 1941.

The letter, from Sgt. Clyde McHenry, 27, was dated Oct. 3, 1944. Where it came from was not known, but the family, with five other boys in service, drank in the words: "I am well and getting along fine."

Sgt. McHenry added: "There must be questions you want to ask me, but you'll have to wait until I get home."

CHALLENGES ANOTHER VOTE OF RELIANCE

Prime Minister Reveals He Has Reached Agreement With Stalin on Dealing With Balkans

ROOSEVELT IS INFORMED

By JAMES F. KING
London, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill in a war review which ranged from Balkan politics to all the fighting theatres of the world told the house of commons today that the present Russian drive was part of a coordinated victory plan to keep all fronts "in constant flame until the final climax."

He gave American fighting men complete credit for stopping the "costly sortie" by Field Marshal von Rundstedt in the west and he once again endorsed the Allied demand for the unconditional surrender of Germany and Japan.

Churchill said he and Marshal Stalin had reached an agreement on dealing with the Balkans to prevent future wars, but that this agreement did not divide Europe into spheres of influence after the war.

Again he challenged the nouse to another vote of confidence on his policy in liberated lands, declaring that Britain would pursue a war-time policy of interference in middle Europe so long as he held office.

President Roosevelt had been kept informed of the exchanges and correspondence with Stalin, he added.

In rapid-fire order Churchill told the house: Britain will stay in Greece until impartial elections can be held. The left-wing EAM-ELAS factions against which British soldiers have been fighting are "even dirtier than the Germans" and must be considered Trotskyite-Communists—a phrase many heard as Churchill's allusion for Moscow in the Greek troubles. ELAS forces already have butchered up to 1,500 fellow Greeks, "mostly with knives or axes."

Britain has no intention of letting young King Peter stand in the path of a regency for Yugoslavia. "He will be ploughed under by the 'march of events' unless he agrees. Marshal Tito must be considered the undisputed master of Yugoslavia."

Italy will be free of Germans in a few months or sooner—they will withdraw or be thrown out—and the hungry weight of a vast liberated territory will be thrown on a "fragile" government in Rome. But (Turn to Page Eleven)

Yank U-Boats Bag 24 More Enemy Ships

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The sinking of 24 additional enemy vessels by American submarines in the Pacific and far eastern waters was announced by the navy today. The bog included four combat ships.

The new toll claimed by the far-ranging submarines included a destroyer, three escort vessels, a large cargo transport, two large tankers, a medium cargo transport, eight medium cargo vessels, two medium tankers, a medium transport, four small cargo vessels and a small tanker.

The announcement raised to 958 the total of Japanese vessels which have fallen victim to submarine warfare. The total included 103 Japanese combat vessels sunk, and 855 non-combatant ships. The total of Japanese destroyers sunk was raised to 45.

Other Japanese combatant ship losses to submarines have totaled: cruisers 13, tenders 3, and others 40.

Previous navy announcements fixed the tonnage of non-combatant enemy vessels sunk by submarines at more than 3,500,000 tons.

Today's announcement increased the total of Japanese fleet tankers lost to 94, obviously seriously impairing operations of the Japanese fleet.

SOVIET FORCES BELIEVED TO HAVE CROSSED REICH BORDER IN RICH INDUSTRIAL SILESIA

Three Great Units, 2,000,000 Strong on 250-Mile Front, Fast Liberating All Poland After Capture of Warsaw

LUBLIN RADIO REPORTS CAPTURE OF KRAKOW

London, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Marshal Stalin announced today in an order of the day the capture of Modlin, 15 miles northeast of Warsaw, and 1,000 other populated places. Modlin, a German stronghold guarding the southern border of East Prussia, fell to Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army, Marshal Stalin said. Since Rokossovsky's offensive began from the Narew bridgeheads January 14, his troops have captured more than 1,500 towns and villages.

By the Associated Press
London, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Russian troops, rolling forward with massive momentum in Marshal Stalin's greatest winter offensive, may already have crossed the German frontier into the coal and industrial region of Silesia.

One Moscow dispatch said it was believed Germany was now fighting on her homeland soil on both the east and west fronts.

Three great Russian armies, 2,000,000 strong on a 250-mile front, were fast liberating all Poland after the capture of Warsaw, Radom and Czesochowa, and the Germans were reported falling back to their next natural line of defense, the Oder river, 30 miles from Berlin.

Berlin said Tomaszow, 30 miles southeast of Lodz, Poland's greatest industrial city, had been evacuated, and said Breslau, Germany's chief industrial city in Silesia, was "directly in the danger zone."

The Lublin radio said Krakow, city of Poland's ancient kings, also had been captured.

The forces of Marshal Gregory Zhukov, which took Warsaw, and of Marshal Ivan Konev were converging on Lodz from the east as well as the south.

Zhukov, after taking Zyrardow, 25 miles west of Warsaw, struck southwest toward Lodz, 46 miles away. Zhukov was 288 miles from Berlin.

Konev's first Ukraine army, which captured Czesochowa, the Catholic center known as the Polish Lourdes, struck for the German frontiers 15 miles distant.

It was Konev who was closest to Berlin, 260 miles at Czesochowa.

A German army radio in Poland early today said the position on the east front "still is completely confused."

Martin Hallensleben, chief military commentator for the German DNE agency, said in an early broadcast, that the Germans had "no chance to meet the Russian superiority frontally" and hinted that Nazi strategy in Poland would (Turn to Page Eleven)

Citrus Juices Back Under Rationing

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Two popular citrus juices went back under rationing today amid indications other commodities may be added soon to the lengthening point charts.

As housewives began paying out blue stamps again for grapefruit juice and blended grapefruit and orange juice, the OPA, it was learned, was trying to decide whether to put land and other shortening and salad and cooking oil back on the list.

The situation was described by one source as "touch and go," with the decision dependent on supply surveys now being made. Reduced pork production has cut output of these items and contributed to spotty distribution.

Ration blues set for the two juices are 10 points for No. 2 cans, 20 points for 46-ounce cans, and 40 points for No. 10 cans.

Wallace Believed Slated To Be Secretary of Commerce

Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)—their talk with Mr. Roosevelt, but the story going the rounds among legislators was this: They went to the president to plead that if he does want Wallace for commerce secretary, he should strip from that department its jurisdiction over the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and subsidiary lending and financial corporations.

Wallace, whose term as vice president expires Saturday, has long been reported eyeing the commerce post longingly. Friends who want to see him achieve the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948 believe that as secretary of commerce he could win important business support to weld with the backing he now has among some labor elements.

MANILA ROAD SEVERED AT TWO POINTS

AIR BLOWS CONTINUE

By the Associated Press
The Japanese Domei news agency claimed without U. S. confirmation today that a Japanese unit had made a "landing from the sea to the rear" of American positions in the Lingayen Gulf area, Tuesday night.

By C. YATES Mc DANIEL
General MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Gains right and left of the expanded Lingayen gulf beachhead were reported by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today as his main spearheads pointed toward Manila approached the important city of Tarlac, fighting nothing much worse than mosquitoes and heat.

On the right the Yanks advanced 17 miles up the Thumblike Bolinao peninsula to capture the city of Bolinao, at the northern end, after a short skirmish with a weak enemy rear guard.

The western part of the drive extended the Lingayen gulf beachhead to approximately 60 miles. On the left flank the Sixth Army cut the main Luzon-Gaguio highway into two places and sent patrols into Pozorubio, around which the most stubborn resistance of the invasion has been encountered. The Americans now have "five wedges along this important highway."

One Yank column was last reported only a half mile from Rosario, moving eastward along a road which joins the main highway two miles beyond the town. Junction at the fork would put the two Yank columns on a mountain road.

Perennial Candidate Seeking Place on Liquor Control Board

Harrisburg, Jan. 18.—Rumors are circulating in Harrisburg that the long standing vacancy on the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board would soon be filled by Governor Martin. A score of names were mentioned for the post but insiders were willing to lay odds that former Governor Arthur H. James, defeated for the Superior Court bench last November, was the real "dark horse."

Since the opening of the legislature, speculation has been running high on Capitol Hill on the selection of a party big wig to fill the position. Since W. Seagriff Stuart was injured in an automobile crash last month, the administrative work of the Board has been carried by Chairman Frederick T. Geider.

Two weeks ago, G. Harold Watkins and Edgar Baird, Jr., were leading candidates for the post. However, Watkins was reported to have withdrawn from the race and Baird, with many interests in Philadelphia Republican politics, was undecided on accepting an appointment.

James is a perennial candidate for a job on the public payroll. During the closing days of his term as governor, he strongly supported Martin as his successor. Martin paid off by naming James to a vacancy on the Superior Court bench—a seat he was most reluctant to give up while running for the governorship. James was a victim of the Democratic sweep last November and insiders say that Martin is grooming the former jurist for the liquor board post.

Several other prominent party figures are in the race for the job. One candidate is widely-known in liquor circles and has powerful political support.

NYC Railroad Is Opened For Whole Length

The Valley Branch of the New York Central running from Dunkirk to Titusville has now been opened up from end to end and freight trains are maintaining schedules. The closure of this branch by the heavy snow storm was for the longest time in the history of the branch. For 12 days not a train was running into Titusville over the road.

Last Saturday an engine crew got out of Titusville and arrived in Warren due to the fact that several cars of coal for Titusville plants and schools were tied up in Warren yards. With an engine from Warren the coal train was doubleheaded into Titusville. Work of opening the tracks then proceeded rapidly. On the Dunkirk end of the line snow and ice had the line effectively tied up. With scores of men the ice was chipped off and the drifts were bucked out with a rotary plow.

The freight over the Valley branch is moving well and freight east is being moved through the Lehigh line as the Gardenville yards of the New York Central lines are still snow bound. East bound freight on the New York Central consigned to Warren is arriving in good shape.

Army Medical Corps In Need Of Recruits

Anne Joan and Angela Julia Krizanik, the Corry twins who created Erie WAC history when they became the first set of twins to enlist through the Erie WAC Recruiting Office, reported for active duty Wednesday in the Women's Army Corps. They appeared at the WAC Recruiting Office in Pittsburgh, and from there they will proceed to Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., for six weeks of basic training. After completion of their basic training period, the twins will be enrolled in the Army's Surgical Technician School.

Anne and Angela, in joining the Medical Department, are helping to swell the ranks in a field where women are sorely needed. As the number of our battle casualties continues to grow, medical workers are required in ever increasing numbers. Categories in which Wacs are needed are: Pharmacist, psychiatric social worker, dental laboratory technician, dental technician (chair asst.), X-ray technician, medical stenographer, medical technician, surgical technician.

If a woman can qualify for a direct assignment in one of these categories, she will, upon completion of six weeks' basic training, be sent for service at one of the Army's medical installations. Otherwise, she may be recommended for a 12 weeks' course at a medical school of the Army and upon completion receive her assignment. Thousands of women are needed for this work.

Anne and Angela resided in Erie while they worked at Lord Mfg. Co. for the past year and one-half. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Krizanik, RFD No. 1, Corry. The twins are graduates of Corry High School. Two brothers, Mark and John, are privates first class in the Army, and a brother-in-law, Henry Petrosky, is a chief petty officer in the Navy. For further information about the WAC and its work, write to the WAC Recruiting Office, 125 Federal Court House, Erie, or visit the weekly WAC office on Tuesday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. in Warren.

PORK SHOULDER, LOIN RATES CUT

Ceiling prices on certain wholesale pork cuts have been reduced by one-half to one cent a pound throughout the country and the reduction will be passed on to consumers, the Office of Price Administration announced Wednesday.

Effective Jan. 22, the ceiling on imported canned hams has also been reduced to $47 per hundred weight from $54. The domestic wholesale pork cuts, reduced in price are smoked loins and rough shoulders, neck bone-in.

OPA also announced an amendment to regulations whereby men

Cold Night Makes Warren Folk Shiver

Warren county in common with most of the section did a bit of shivering as the mercury slid down and down. This morning about town the temperature stood at 8 below zero. Trees were covered with frost and presented a most beautiful picture as the sun rose and caused them to glisten in the crisp air.

On Morrison Run where Art Blowers maintains the iceest "icebox" in the whole section the mercury touched 24 below which was too cold for comfort. Arch reported this morning that small rabbits leaped up on the window sill of his kitchen where rays from his stove warmed the glass and cuddled down. They seemed to enjoy the warmth and slept contentedly on the window sill when the Blowers family began stirring their buckwheat cakes this morning.

Plumbers were kept on the jump as many pipes were frozen and the boys with the wrenches were in great demand.

serving in the Merchant Marine, with five or more weeks of active sea-going duty, will be granted furlough gasoline rations.

Water Co. Is Kept Busy By False Reports

During the past few days when Old Sol got busy doing some thawing about town, pools of water have gathered in many places and have caused reports to pour into the water company office to the effect that pipes were broken. This week the employees have been traveling about the town making tests for broken lines.

Yesterday one report came from the police that a line had broken on an East Side street. Water was standing on a sidewalk and looked suspicious. Tests were made on lines and mains and no leak could be found. Finally a hole was dug and tests made there. No leak could be found and the hole was filled up.

The pay-off came when a woman got her car stuck in the hole and had to hire a garage man to pull her out and then collected off the water company the cost of the garage service.

John Q. Public Just Doesn't Scan Budget

Old John Q. Public, who pays the bills and tries to take it off his income tax, just doesn't seem to give a tinker's darn about the borough budget. The proposed budget, carrying the tidy sum of about $175,000, was introduced at the last council meeting and is now on file at the city clerk's office. However, while it is the bounden duty of Mr. Taxpayer to call and scan the budget, he hasn't called yet. The city clerk reported this morning that not one taxpayer had called to get a look at the document.

This, however, is nothing new, as the city clerk reports that in former years the budget has never caused anyone, except on one or two occasions, to call and read the document.

Employees of the city other than those on salaries are somewhat peeved over the fact that under the ordinance passed by council relative to sick leaves and vacations only salaried employees are eligible for vacations and leaves. They claim they should be considered in the matter and should be treated equally well, and that they are going to do something about it. This matter will undoubtedly come up for consideration at the next council meeting.

Stray Leaves From Notebook Of Reporter About Town

Over in Central Fire station the new iron lung which was recently presented to the city by the Federated Club is being made ready for use and the firemen will soon be instructed in how to apply and use it. The apparatus consists of a metal frame which fits about the body and this is in three sizes for children and large and small persons. The upper and lower ends of the contraption have rubber applied in such a manner that air is not allowed to escape once it is in place. A small motor drives the pump which supplies air to the lung. Once in use it does all the work that was formerly done by artificial respiration.

"It really makes you breathe," said Russell Davis. The firemen had been placed in the machine and it was being tried out. "You can't help breathing," said Davis. "It just takes hold of you and I tried to hold my breath while it was operating but it was impossible."

And just to make it more intricate an alarm can be used in the machine as well as a guinea pig and he had a heck of a time getting unfastened and onto the truck before it pulled away from him.

"Anyhow it works," said Davis.

Hey, can you remember when following the first World's Fair at Chicago the Barnum and Bailey Circus showed in Warren? It showed on lands about where the Wilburine held forth for many years and was a whopping big affair. One of the features of the show was a huge platform set up in the menagerie tent whereon was shown a number of big attractions that had been widely advertised by the World's Fair. One of the big features was Fatima the Turkish Dancing Girl. Seems just like yesterday that she twirled and twirled to the now familiar hootchie kootchie music which was brand new in those bright days. Fatima sure could wiggle and while scores of other wigglers have

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better.

Many suffer from nagging backache quickly, come they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urination with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

flashed across the platforms in red tents at Carnivals here since that time she still is crowned Queen of the Wigglers in one man's memory. There were other features, too, but Fatima was the one most talked about. Those who went in the afternoon passed the word around and boy was there a crowd out at night. They do say as how some of the old boys attended both performances.

Something new has been added. To the purchase of cigarettes known as the "Stoop Variety", cause the merchants stoops under the counter to get 'em "Grab" has been added. The purchaser is supposed to "grab 'em" and hustle 'em into his pocket before some other customers who isn't a regular can spot the sale and demand his share. Doing business these days is really something what with the shortages in sundry and various things.

Ever see Warren wake up in the morning? It really is some sight and in event you haven't been rolling out of the feathers shortly after 6 o'clock it might prove of interest. First and foremost Jerry Park trundles around in the police car and turns on the traffic lights and sets them twinkling in the half light of the morning.

Then Jerry hies to the police station and does a bit of shaving. He really peels 'em off close. In the meantime Herman Ecklund does a mess of cleaning and dusting in the city building so that it always looks spic and span.

The change of shifts at the local war plants fills the streets with cars and they do crowd the speed limits as they get up and down Fourth and Pennsylvania avenues. The trucks from the Butterkrust loaded with bread and cakes take off for the hinterland and the drivers nearly all stop for coffee and donuts at the Texas. The parcel post delivery trucks come rolling out the alley near the New York restaurant. The R. W. Norris trucks loaded with automobile parts, etc., also roll out bright and early.

Ray Bimber arrives at his emporium with eyes filled with sleep and gets ready to tell the folks "no cigarettes" and to pass 'em out a Post Gazette hot off the trucks from Pittsburgh.

One by one the lights in the stores flash on and Frank Dunham comes hustling along to get his razors honed and ready for the shop opens at 8 o'clock.

By 8:30 the old town is really getting into swing and the gals of the New Process and the Sylvania come rushing along ready for another day.

There are about 1,200 farm implement factories in the United States.

Portland cement does not come from Portland or any part of the United States, but from England.

Lamplighter of Broadway Gives White Way a Glimmer of Glamor

Jake Starr's 154-foot Varga girl, advertising a Broadway musical, was world's largest pin-up.

By JAMES THRASHER
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York, Jan. 18—Jake Starr is not what you would call a glamorous man. Nor, for that matter, is his partner, Ben Strauss. Their names seldom appear in the public prints. Yet for more than 40 years these two men have been among the chief contributors to the glamor of what is perhaps the world's most publicized thoroughfare.

Mr. Starr explains their contribution simply: "Broadway is a street of electric signs. We make the signs."

Specifically, they design, manufacture and erect more than 90 per cent of all the spectacular displays on Broadway. Their own 42 per cent of the street's choice sign locations. They have helped to glamorize the glamor girls from "Floradora" through Ziegfeld to the offerings of Mike Todd and Billy Rose. They have seen the bright lights change from gas to neon, and have watched them move up from 14th street to Times Square.

But Jake Starr doesn't get to see the actresses behind his signs. He's too busy. As treasurer and guiding mechanical genius of the Artkraft Strauss Sign Corp., he works 16 hours a day, seven days a week. He has no hobbies, and has never taken a vacation.

The average Broadway sign costs from $10,000 to $12,000, and Mr. Starr builds them to last a good 10 years. Sometimes they seem like wasted effort. Once the firm finished a big job for a hopeful producer on Saturday, and the show closed the following day.

Mr. Starr learned artistic integrity, among other things, from the man to whom he was apprenticed in his native Russia. This man made beautiful rubles, better and cheaper than those turned out by the imperial mint. So when the tsar's police finally picked him up for counterfeiting, the authorities offered him his freedom if he would tell them how he did it.

"What," said the counterfeiter, "and give away a secret worth millions? Never!" So off he went to spend the rest of his life in Siberia, while his young apprentice came to America.

Present jobs include the supervision of a lot of war work and the groundwork for what will be the biggest outdoor sign in America. Oddly enough, war and the blackout haven't brought a business slump to Artkraft Strauss. Quite the contrary.

They had to hustle, first of all, to find substitutes for critical materials, and figure out systems of mirrors and indirect lighting that would preserve a glimmer of Broadway's glamor without violating blackout regulations. Then came war orders, and the firm opened a second shop to make parts for tanks, ships and other vehicles of war.

Mr. Starr is also perfecting two war-interrupted miracles of his craft. One is the "newsograph," similar to present-day running electric signs except that it can be operated and changed as fast as a man can teletype. The other is the "vondesign," which, with the help of 27,000 bulbs and 500,000 electrical connections, will dash off electrical pictures with all the slap-dash virtuosity of an old-time lyceum entertainer giving chalk talks.

Mr. Starr's labors aren't confinied to his own neighborhood. One of his signs was down over the Andes to a movie theater in Bogota, Columbia. Another, sailed by chartered ship to Iceland, said "This Theater Is Air Cooled. (Mr. Starr never quite figured that one out.)

But you get the impression that Jake Starr's heart belongs to Mazda Alley, even if he never gets to see its shows. Nothing pleases him more than to be called the Lamplighter of Broadway.

COUNTY HONORED BY NAVY

According to a special dispatch arriving from headquarters of the Fourth Naval District in Philadelphia, Warren county has been honored by the Navy Department by having a fleet ship named after it.

The names of counties have been selected for 310 transports and cargo vessels in keeping with the Navy custom of assigning names of places in the United States to many classes of naval vessels.

The transport and cargo vessels are the Navy's prime movers of men and materials to our battlefronts. Some of these ships are classed as attack transports and attack cargo ship. These are heavily armed and have been developed for amphibious assaults on Japanese-held bases in the Pacific.

An attack transport carries a complete combat team of many hundreds of men with all the attack equipment needed to gain and hold a beachhead. The attack cargo vessels bring in the thousands of tons of food supplies, ammunition, vehicles, gasoline and medical supplies required to maintain combat units after they have landed.

The assault ships operate as part of a task force of which they are the heart. They are protected by task groups of battleships, carriers, cruisers and destroyers.

After the big guns and planes have softened up an enemy stronghold, and the initial waves of attacking troops have landed in smaller landing craft, the cargo ships and transports move in and send their men and materials ashore in small, shallow-draft landing boats.

MR. VANDENBERG'S SPEECH

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Republican and pre-war isolationist, helped launch the senate's foreign policy debate with a speech that merits the attention and admiration of all friends of international postwar peace.

He was specific. He proposed an immediate treaty among the leading powers to demilitarize Germany and Japan permanently. This, he suggested, would remove the fear of Axis militarism and the doubt of eventual American co-operation which apparently are driving Britain and Russia toward a course of unilateral and bilateral agreements, and power politics.

He was practical. He proposed to allow the president prompt authorization of force to carry out the treaty. He also proposed eventual functions of the Dumbarton Oaks plan calculated to cancel some foreseeable objections by "perfectionist" colleagues in the senate.

And, as an influential Republican, he charted a course of unity and action for his party. His program is one of positive accomplishment, not negative opposition. It promises a willing, constructive partnership by the senate minority in the great and fateful work ahead.

In short, Mr. Vandenberg probably did a lot to renew a lot of wavering faith in the congress of the United States.

The death of Hon. D. U. Arird Wednesday morning, following a long illness, brings to an end an energetic career as a public servant whose loyal interest to the community was never questioned. Judge Arird was one of the best informed men of his day, a thorough and experienced lawyer and jurist, vigorous in the statement of his beliefs and devoted to his profession. Those who differed with him during the years respected his viewpoints, knowing that it was his way of looking at the same question in which loyal citizens are ever interested. Judge Arird was the last of his family. His passing recalls to older residents the deep attachment that existed between Judge Arird and his brother Clemons D., who held the position of county superintendent of schools at the time of his death in 1887.

The capture of Warsaw is one of the most important victories of the entire World War, for this ancient cross-roads of eastern Europe has been the anchor of Hitler's Vistula line—last powerful defensive position between the Russians and the Reich. Now the whole 250-mile Vistula front has collapsed and the Germans are reeling back. This means, barring miracles, that the Germans must run for their defenses on the Oder river inside their own frontier. Such a wholesale retreat is one of the most dangerous operations of war, and disaster hovers over it like a vulture.

POLK HOUSES

Columbia, Tenn., prizes its two Polk homes. It goes all-out in War Bond selling so that nothing may mar them. Samuel Polk's house, a two-story brick building with spacious rooms and French windows opening on to quaint balconies, was built in 1816. Next door is an almost duplicate home which Mr. Polk built for his daughter. The residence of James K. Polk, son, eleventh President of the United States, is a short distance away. The house where he entertained Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren during the campaign of 1844, when he was elected, is also of two stories and was erected in 1820. Relics of the building years of this Nation that must endure, these homes inspire the purchase of War Bonds.

Safety Program For Pedestrians

Harrisburg, Jan. 18—Governor Martin has urged all safety and civic organizations, motor clubs and the general public to participate in the Pedestrian Protection Program being sponsored by Pennsylvania and twelve other eastern states.

Calling attention to the 1944 traffic casualty totals in Pennsylvania, the Governor said 1,244 persons were killed and 30,442 injured in 43,086 motor vehicle accidents. The dead included 672 pedestrians and 7,057 of the injured were pedestrians.

In his statement the Governor said: "A majority of the casualties were war workers. Loss of life at all times, is tragic, but it becomes more so at this critical hour in the life of our Nation. We cannot afford the loss of a single hand at the well of production.

"Pedestrian accidents have become a major phase of the traffic safety problem. A steady increase in pedestrian fatalities and injuries throughout the Nation has created an alarming situation. The trend must be stemmed and turned the other way."

Landlord Seeking Rent Boosts Given Methods By Erie Board

As of January 1, 1945, 2,871 petitions for rent increases have been received, and 1,407 of them granted in the Erie and Warren County Defense-Rental Areas since OPA put control of residential rents into effect here, Area Rent Director Anderson announced today.

Of this total, a considerable number have been granted under the provisions affording a landlord relief when he has made a major capital improvement to his property.

To expedite the processing of petitions under this adjustment provision, Anderson asked that landlords in preparing their petitions give full and complete details of the improvement made.

As one example of what might constitute a major capital improvement, the complete rehabilitation of a dwelling unit or an apartment house was cited. "Where this has been done," Anderson said, "the landlord should state in his petition the amount of money he spent in the rehabilitation. He should give full details of how the money was spent, such as 'new roof,' 're-wiring,' 'complete re-decoration.'"

"Complete details will enable the Rent Office to process the petition quickly eliminating unnecessary delay which would be occasioned if the Rent Office has to request additional information.

By themselves the items enumerated above would not constitute a major capital improvement, but would be considered ordinary maintenance and repair. It is where the character of the structure is changed by the rehabilitation, placing the structure into a higher rental range that qualifies a landlord to petition for a rent increase.

The Rent Director also reminded landlords that there are two provisions in the Rent Regulations covering cases where a major capital improvement has been made. One of these applies when the improvement has been made after the effective date of the Rent Regulation which was October 1, 1942 for this area. The other applies where the improvement was made before the maximum rent date, March 1, 1942, but a lease or other rental agreement was in force at the time the improvement was completed, continuing in force on the maximum rent date, preventing the landlord from increasing the rent.

Other examples of a major capital improvement, as against ordinary repair, replacement and maintenance would be the addition of one or more rooms by finishing the attic of a house, or the installation of a second bathroom.

TIRE CONSERVATION
Warning that chances of motorists getting new tires even by the end of 1945 are slim, the rubber industry gives the following simple rules to conserve tires: do not let re-capping go too long; watch inflation, curb-scrapping, jack-rabbit starts, and skidding stops; remember that synthetic tires (if you can get them) will not stand under-inflation of 50-to-60-a-mile driving.

A tureen dinner was served at noon to about 30, after which the meeting was opened by Mrs. Randall, president, who was assisted in the devotional period by Rev. and Mrs. Philip Schlick, Mrs. Clendenning and Mrs. Miller. The pastor conducted the installation of officers for 1945. It was decided to combine the February meeting with the World Day of Prayer observance on February 16, the gathering to be held at the church, with Mrs. Josephine Larsen and Mrs. Mildred Arthur as the hostesses.

Several messages were read from boys in service and from shut-ins, expressing thanks for Christmas boxes sent them by the group. The program was in charge of Mrs. Myrtle Nelson in the form of an outline of the work of the different officers and the opportunity that is theirs in the year to come. The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. Schlick.

Harold Banghart led group singing at the table, with Mrs. W. R. Carlin accompanying at the piano. Also at this time was an interesting "Know Your Neighbor" contest conducted by Ross Carlson and won by Mrs. Banghart, Mrs. Wilson Waters and Mrs. John McLaughlin.

Adjourning to the parlors, the group was addressed by the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Cruickshank, of North Warren, who spent three months of the past summer at army camps in the south. Sent by the Presbyterian Church of America, Rev. Cruickshank's word was as aide to army chaplains. Mrs. Cruickshank spoke highly of the treatment afforded men at the USO centers and among many interesting facts related by her husband was the many instances in which boys needing counsel came to him because he was in civilian attire and reminded them of their own home town pastors. The couple received many expressions of thanks for their contribution to the program at the close of the evening.

Concluding, Harold Hampson conducted an alphabetical Bible quiz between the two classes, outcome of which has not yet been definitely established.

EVENTS PLANNED AT WOMAN'S CLUB

Several nice events are in prospect in the near future for members of the Woman's Club, including the inauguration of a weekly Thursday night dinner party. These special gatherings are under the supervision of the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Albert Rockwell is chairman, and include a luncheon next Monday, another on February 5 and a Valentine card party on February 14.

New members will be guests at the Monday luncheon, to be served at one o'clock, preceding the regular meeting of the Community Service Department. Reservations must be made no later than Friday evening.

CALVARY YOUNG PEOPLE TO ELECT

The Young People's Society of the Calvary Baptist church will hold its monthly meeting Friday evening at 7:30 and the election of officers will take place which was postponed from the last meeting. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Backstrom will be entertaining and all members and friends are asked to be present.

ADULT PARTY AT YWCA TONIGHT

American Grandmother Lavishes Her Love and Care On Baby Flown From England By an Army Transport

HOWDY, FOLKS! Kenneth Barry Maloney surveys his world while angora kitten, LeRoy, stands guard.

By KATHRYN UMPHREY

AP Features Grand Rapids, Mich.—Safe from buzz bombs and war dangers of Europe, eight-months-old Kenneth Barry Maloney, the war orphan who recently was flown to America to the tune of a couple of new teeth and an added three pounds. When interviewed, the plump blue-eyed youngster uttered vigorous baby gurgles and definite were more interested in the new white shoes than in an account of his sensational flight, via army transport plane.

For the time when he will be interested, however, his grandparents have a scrapbook ready for him, along with one that belonged to his father, Lt. Kenneth Maloney, U. S. Army Airforce pilot, who was killed over England before the infant was born. His English mother died in childbirth, and his maternal grandparents were killed when bombs struck their home.

Enough red tape to reach from England to America was untangled before the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney, of Grand Rapids, were able to have the baby brought here. In just a few more months now he will be their legally adopted son.

In view of all his past excitement, sometimes Kenny will peer over the edge of his bassinet and yawn as if to say "This is pretty dull." But he is the only one in the household who finds it so. Ever since his grandmother went tearing off to New York in October to collect him from the Red Cross, things have been different.

Not that a baby in the Maloney house is a new experience. They have raised their own four children and at least five others. Kenneth has his own room and a playroom for himself, his Uncle John, aged 7, and his two-year-old cousin, Terry Michael Eardly, whose father is overseas.

"He is such a good baby, but he has a lot of spirit," Mrs. Maloney said while loosening Kenny's grip on the new kitten's tail. The kitten, named LeRoy, is Kenny's favorite gift, presented by his great-grandmother, Mrs. Cynthia Maloney, 75.

When he gets a little bigger he will be able to play with his own dog, too—a collie pup named Bonnie. In addition, there are three other dogs and one more cat in the household.

Since his arrival, Kenny has learned to sit up and has added a rolling creep to his accomplishments.

Next to eating, his favorite sport is splashing water all over the person who bathes him—in fact, he enjoys his bath so much that they often put him in the big tub so he can make more noise.

A firm friend of photographers, the baby breaks out with a broad grin whenever he spies a camera. It probably is this habit which has captivated so much of America, for every mail brings letters and gifts to the baby.

DORCAS SOCIETY

Members of the Dorcas Society of the Grace church will meet tomorrow evening at 6:15 o'clock in the league rooms for a tureen dinner.

THE WATER'S FINE! Kenneth enjoys his bath.

Admiral's Wife Seeks Monument for Flags

By ANN STEVICK
Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—When the boys get home from the high seas and the foxholes they should be able to see and bring their children to see the flags they fought under displayed in a place of honor specially built for the purpose, says Mrs. Thomas B. Richey, flag-fancier and authority on their history and preservation.

Mrs. Richey is the wife of Rear Admiral Thomas B. Richey, now stationed in Washington, and she's stumping the neighborhood to get people interested in a national monument to display the country's honored flags. Mrs. Richey is an avowed flag-lover. You'd have to be to stitch eight hours a day for three weeks making the shreds of an 1804 flag into a triumphant whole, strong enough to hang on display for years, stitched with an intricately precise and knowing net stitch that suspends all the weight on a backing of the most durable Irish linen.

This is but one of the 5000 flags this gracious lady with the bright red hair and soft voice has helped to preserve. She grew up surrounded by the flag-fixing activities of her mother, Mrs. Amelia Fowler, whose Boston home was a studio for a life work with flags. Mrs. Fowler started out studying the Bayeux tapestry and branched

Chapter 28
IN the morning Hugh looked white and tired as he went into town for the day.

This was the day the ration board met and was the accepted time around River Gap to bring in knotty problems to be handled.

But this morning the crowd was unusually dense and they were clustered together in small, tight-knit groups. And as Hugh entered his office, Sheriff Webb came towards him.

"This saves me a trip out to your place, Hugh. Got a minute?"

"Of course," said Hugh. "What's on your mind?"

"Plenty," said Sheriff Webb. "Dan Lacey hung himself last night."

Hugh stood perfectly still, shocked, incredulous—seeing a girl's shining black hair, a girl's white face, lit with two dark, pain-dazed, shamed eyes.

"No!" he said at last.

Sheriff Webb nodded. "Hit me all of a heap, too," he admitted. I reckon from what the girl said, he had plenty on his mind."

Hugh said, "You mean Isabel?"

"Sure—Isabel, his daughter—called my office 'bout two hours ago. Seems she'd been worried about her Pa and went to his room to see if he was all right, and found him—dead."

Hugh said under his breath, "The poor little soul!"

"Yes, it was a right hard blow for the girl," admitted Sheriff Webb. "Seems like she thought a right smart lot of her Pa."

"Yes," said Hugh quietly. "I'm sure she did."

SHERIFF WEBB looked narrowly at Hugh.

"Got anything you want to tell me, Mr. Prather?" he demanded unexpectedly, his voice mild, almost conversational.

Hugh looked at him swiftly, surprised.

"What do you mean, Sheriff?" he demanded curtly.

"About last night, for instance," said Sheriff Webb, still in that mild, peaceful tone.

Hugh hesitated a moment and then he said slowly, "No, Sheriff.

Chapter 29
THAT night, absorbed in his thoughts, his memories, his dreams of the future he did not hear the footfall on the wide veranda. Not until there came a knock at the door was he aware that he had a visitor.

He rose, puzzled, and glanced at the clock. Almost eleven. Who, in River Gap, would find business so urgent that he would venture out at this time of night on a dark and lonely road?

He unfastened the door and swung it open. A man stood there in the shadows, out of reach of the firelight and the lamplight. Hugh said, puzzled, "Well, what is it?"

Dan Lacey stepped into the light, and said darkly, "Want to talk to you, Prather—but I wanted to be sure you were alone."

"Come in, Lacey. I'm quite alone," said Hugh. He fastened the door, and followed Lacey towards the fire. "Sit down."

"Thanks. I'll stand," he said gruffly. "I just came to tell you, Prather, that River Gap isn't big enough to hold you and me both, and one of us has to get out."

"Then I'm afraid it's going to be you, Lacey," Hugh assured him quietly.

"I think I can persuade you," said Lacey thinly. "I'm giving you fair warning: you and Webb and that smart Aleck of a Gordon have been on my trail for months—but you haven't found out anything, have you? Not even when you put a spy right in my own place."

LACEY went on after a moment. "I'm prepared to buy the lodge from you, and that's about the only thing you own here that would make you want to stay. I'll make a right nice place for Isabel when she marries."

"Just why is it so important for me to leave River Gap, Lacey?" he demanded mildly, though his eyes were blazing.

Lacey smiled sarcastically. "I want to be mayor," he answered succinctly.

Varied Events To Occupy Reserves In Coming Months

YWCA Girl Reserve plans for 1945 are progressing rapidly and the program promises to be an interesting and varied one.

Becky Girls' Club is sponsoring a sleighride tomorrow evening at seven o'clock, when all seventh and eighth grade girls are welcome. The ride will start and end at the activities building, with refreshments planned to top off the evening. This same club, it is recalled, invited all Becky girls to a skating party last Friday evening.

All Girl Reserves, as junior members of the YWCA, were invited to attend the annual YW meeting this Tuesday and for that reason there was no ring committee meeting. The next meeting of this group will be held January 29, when the topic will be "Loyal Friends."

At the last meeting of Freshmen Girls, plans were made for a "sock jump" to be held in the near future. This event will be in the nature of an open house for all freshman girls and boys.

A skating-outing for their next meeting and a Valentine party at the YW are on the schedule for the North Warren Club.

High School Girls' Club has a "date party" at Jefferson up its sleeve for January 24 and is planning to fill kit bags at Red Cross headquarters and to assemble a USO Scrapbook as service projects for 1945.

The cabinet urges all Junior and Senior Girls' Club members to be present at the meeting January 22 in order to vote on changes made in revising the constitution.

PAK Planning For Another Service Sunday Evening

The worship team of Club 17, under the direction of Rector Beecher M. Rutledge, of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church, planned and conducted an impressive religious service for members of the PAK last Sunday night. The service, held in the main auditorium of the First Presbyterian church, was based on a number of the most famous religious paintings depicting scenes from the life of Christ.

Next Sunday evening at 6:45, another religious service built around one of the famous Cathedral films, "Who Is My Neighbor?", will be held in the Sunday school auditorium of the same church. Charles Cochener will be the leader for this service, assisted by Marie Kammerer. The PAK Orchestra, under the direction of John Knapp, will play.

Preceding the service, members of the PAK will hold a 6:15 tureen supper in the church dining room and all attending are asked to bring a tureen. The PAK Orchestra and Westminster Chorists will rehearse at their usual times.

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College School Of Agriculture

Oat Yields Improved—Three recently developed oat varieties—Violand, Tama and Boone—surpassed standard varieties in yield in demonstrations conducted last summer on Pennsylvania farms under supervision of extension agronomists of the Pennsylvania State College. Of the three, Violand gave the best performance. Seed is now available.

Potato Disease Spreading—Ring rot, highly infectious potato disease, is spreading to new areas each year. Plant pathologists at the Pennsylvania State College urge planting only disease free seed and the disinfecting of all utensils and equipment used in planting, including containers, gloves, and knives.

Ewes Need Attention—A light grain feed, such as oats and corn, together with bran and good roughage, will help build up underweight ewes in winter quarters, points out William B. McConnell, extension livestock specialist at the Pennsylvania State College.

Dairy Herds Improved—Bull Associations in Pennsylvania have produced 587 sires and 7,336 females for the development and improvement of herds, reports R. R. Welch, extension dairy specialist at the Pennsylvania State College.

Much Strawberries—Much may still be applied to strawberry plants to good advantage—even with snow on the ground, report extension fruit specialists at the Pennsylvania State College. Wheat straw is best.

Keep Best Cows—If feed supplies shrink, dairymen may find it more profitable to cull their herd than buy feed—keeping the best producers, remind extension dairy specialists at Penn State College.

Vegetable Short Course—The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture will conduct a vegetable plant short course Jan. 24-25.

Mindodo, seventh in size of the Philippine Islands, has remained one of the least developed of the larger islands of the group.

Dime Box Is First Place to Fill Its "March of Dimes" Quota

Here is the main stem of Dime Box, Tex., whose citizens lead the nation in the March of Dimes.

By NEA Service

Dime Box, Tex., Jan. 18.—The annual March of Dimes appeal began officially on January 14, but not in Dime Box, Tex., where the Postmaster is appropriately named David Franklin Stamp.

Dime Box jumped the gun. With a name like that, the town's 350 residents decided they should set an example. So they started to line up 100 per cent community contributions a month ahead. Their quota will be sent to the White House as an opener for the national appeal for funds to fight infantile paralysis.

Infantile paralysis is a real and personal matter to the citizens of Dime Box, Tex. They have had their share of victims, stricken in epidemics that have swept the country since the town's inception in 1878. They are familiar with the work of The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in caring for polio victims and consider it, in their own words, "a mighty fine thing."

A. W. McClelland, 88, the town's oldest living resident, explained how Dime Box came by its unique name. Back in '78 when the local settlement was Browns Mill, folks used to leave a dime in a box at the grist mill, along with a shopping list. On his twice-a-week trips to Giddings, the mailman also would take the lists and do the community's shopping. The dime was his fee for the service.

That "dime box" became the local news and trading post. When, through postal mixups with the town of Brownsville, the community was asked if they'd consider a change of name, Browns Mill just naturally became "Dime Box."

These enterprising Texans are proud of their town's unusual name, as well they may be; it's the number one town in the fight against the nation's most baffling disease, infantile paralysis.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little PASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTEETH at any drug store. (adv.)

No Man Under 30 Physically Fit Now Safe From Induction

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—This may make a lot of men under 30 jittery, but it's something to remember: No man under 30, physically fit, is now safe from his draft board.

Each man's case will depend on his individual draft board, which still is free to use its own judgment in drafting or deferring him. The boards haven't been told they must follow the government's new list of critical and essential activities. They've been asked to follow it. Actually, most boards probably most boards will be guided by the list.

Here's the background:

The government last February published a list of 35 essential activities, ranging from farming to school teaching.

When a draft board had to fill its quota, a man not engaged in a job on the list was draft-bait right then.

If he was on the essential list, the board checked to see how essential he was. He was deferred according to his essentiality.

Military draft calls dropped in May and, because the armed services wanted the youngest men possible, draft boards were told to concentrate on men under 26.

That's changed now. Now draft boards have been told to concentrate on all men under 30 and to tighten up on the reasons for deferring them.

But the government has gone over that list of 35 essential activities.

It has left the list intact. The same 35 activities remain essential. But there was this change: Some of those 35 activities now are classified not only as essential, but critical, too.

So, with the new list published and in order to minimize damage to the war effort, War Mobilizer Byrnes has asked Selective Service officials to ask draft boards to draft men in this order:

1. Men not working in any activity on the list. For instance, a pool room handymen.
2. Men in relatively unimportant jobs in activities listed as essential only.
3. Men working in relatively unimportant jobs in critical activities.
4. Men in relatively more important jobs in essential but not critical activities.
5. Men in more important jobs in critical activities.

new medicines that is now being used. The high school students that were guests were Bert Lyle and Rose Konestoba. Last week's meeting, Pto. Lyle J. Slack USMC was the speaker. The high school guests were Bert Lyle, Rose Konestoba and Ruth Gustafson. Other guests were H. L. Bair, W. J. Summerville of Warren and Oliver S. Hickman, of Harrisburg, who visited the Township schools.

The Mother's Club of the Lincoln school, have found that it will be necessary to postpone their meeting Wednesday 17th until a week later.

Robert Petty

Again Gets In

County News

Robert Petty, Youngsville man, who has many times been in the news for various escapades, was removed from the county jail to the Warren General Hospital last evening. Petty evinced signs of appendicitis last evening shortly after 6:30 and a physician summoned ordered him removed to the hospital. Attaches of the sheriff's office spent the night at the fellow's bedside on guard. A blood count will be made today and if necessary an operation will follow.

Petty was arrested some time ago on a charge of passing bouncing checks at a local jewelry store and after a hearing was lodged in jail. Then he began the weaving of a series of tales relative to various robberies about the county and described how the Irvine Inn had been entered and how the gas station just outside the borough line had been broken into. He was willing to oblige on several others but investigation showed his tales were purely imaginative. Hence he was taken to the State Hospital for observation. After 30 days there he was returned to the county jail this week and now he professes to be sick. It is thought that he may be feigning the illness.

As soon as possible he will be taken into court for sentence on the charge of passing bouncing checks. He will be able to tell his tales to officials at some institution of the state.

Exonerated In

Death Probe

A joint investigation just concluded by officials of Warren and Jefferson counties has completely dissipated any suspicion that violence may have contributed to the death of John Favorite, a patient, who passed away at the local institution last Saturday evening.

Favorite, who was admitted from Sykesville in March, 1943, died Saturday night under circumstances which indicated the demise was from natural causes. He had been released Sunday to a Sykesville undertaker, however, certain statements were made by attendants and patients indicating that methods may have been used in restraining the patient, which may have contributed to his death. Hospital officials called in District Attorney J. H. Goldstein and Coroner Ed Lowrey, and it was decided to solicit co-operation of the Jefferson county officials in securing an autopsy.

The autopsy was held in the Reed funeral home in Sykesville Tuesday, performed by Dr. Samuel Meigs Beyer, of Punxsutawney, assisted by Dr. Jack A. Wolford, of the Warren State Hospital staff. Also in attendance were Fred W. Beyer, coroner of Jefferson county, Punxsutawney; Pvt. Paul A. Lanzo, of the state police at Punxsutawney; William A. Sykes, district attorney, Brookville; Sheriff L. E. Linder and District Attorney J. H. Goldstein, Warren; William Walter, supervisor, and Dr. Leonard Rosenzweig, of the Warren State Hospital.

Upon the conclusion of the autopsy, Dr. Beyer reported that in his opinion the patient could have died of acute dilatation of the heart and exhaustion as a result of his dementia praecox, catatonic state. He further reported that he was certain that nothing was done to the man of a violent nature, from the autopsy findings.

Funeral services for the patient were held this morning at 10 o'clock at the Sykesville Roman Catholic church. Interment was made in the Solder Hill cemetery there.

Famine in Athens was reported to have caused 100,000 deaths in 1942.

Chairmen For the March of Dimes Campaign Announced

Miss Ethel Hodges, county chairman for the March of Dimes, has announced the chairmen of local committees which will conduct the campaign in county towns. In most communities, tag day will be held on Saturday, January 20.

Chairmen are as follows: Lander, Mrs. Edna Burgett; Lottsville and Bear Lake, Mrs. Allen Baker; North Warren, Mrs. F. M. Geer; Russell, Mrs. H. T. Moll; Sugar Grove, Mrs. Scott Stuart Jr.; Pittsfield, Mrs. Dorothy Simpson; Tidouette, Mrs. Gordon I. Norton; Sheffield, Miss Mary Richwalsky; Youngsville, Mrs. Fernand Hubert.

In addition to these communities the following schools will participate in the campaign: Garland, Irvine, Irvinedale, Lincoln, Pleasant and Starbrick.

It is reported that 12,000 tags and more than 150 volin collectors are ready for Saturday's drive.

Placards have been distributed in Warren by Girl Scouts and in the county by the local committee. Nearly 200 letters have been prepared by Miss Alice Davis and mailed to business firms and individuals soliciting special gifts.

Miss Betty Gentilman has given demonstrations of the method of treatment for infantile paralysis at several Parent-Teacher Associations this week. These demonstrations are, without doubt, the most effective manner of interpreting the work of the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

With a little cooperation from the weather man, the March of Dimes on Saturday is sure to surpass the successful drives of past years, since the necessity for a fund to combat the ravages of infantile paralysis has been shown so clearly in our own community in recent months.

Annual Farm Meeting Was More Than Usually Successful

Bad roads undoubtedly held down to some extent the attendance at the annual meeting of the Warren County Agricultural Extension Association held at the Court House Wednesday. However there were about 60 interested persons in attendance at the morning session, and 60 gathered for the afternoon meeting. At the noon dinner one hundred and eleven persons were present including 30 Kiwanians and guests. As a whole the meeting was highly successful and worth while.

President Stanley Lawrence, of Youngsville, president of the group, presided at the morning session. He extended a welcome to all and invited the group to come to the front of the court room where it would be a little more "homey". The session was devoted to reports from various chairmen of groups and some highly interesting reports were given. Mrs. W. G. Eyer, of Lander spoke on Home Economics and 4-H Club projects and her report was of much value. Mrs. Orrie Beebe, of Warren spoke on "Nutrition"; Charles Camp on "Potato Projects"; Leon Whitley on "Corn and Oats and Variety Development"; Stanley Lawrence "4-H Pig Club and Wool Marketing"; Arnell Carter "Poultry Projects and the Akeley Capon Project" and C. C. Winans of Warren spoke on "Farm Labor". David V. Cradale had a good report on "Forestry" and the use of the wood lot on the farms was brought up.

Thelma Fredergrast in charge of Home Economics in the county gave an interesting resume of the Home Economics program as it is being carried out in the county and of the splendid results which have been secured.

County Farm Agent Tritt spoke on "Agriculture" and he touched on many of the problems which will be held in her memory on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. G. G. Burke officiating, with interment in the Youngsville cemetery.

Friends may call anytime at the Young Funeral Home.

MRS. MAGNUS JOHNSON

Sheffield, Jan. 18—Johanna Carolina Johnson, widow of Magnus Johnson, died at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday at the home of her only daughter, Mrs. Hugo Rydger, 210 North South street, Warren. She was born in Halmstad, Sweden, October 4, 1861, and came to Sheffield in 1881. She had been a member of the Swedish Lutheran church for 58 years and was active in its Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society. She was also a member of the Evening Star, Swedish lodge.

Besides her daughter, she leaves three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. August Hammer, Sheffield. Her husband and three children preceded her in death, two dying in infancy and a third, Felix, a few years ago.

Funeral services will be held from the Borden Funeral Home at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, Rev. Hans Pearson officiating and interment made in the local cemetery.

Ice Rink Draws Many Skaters; Enjoy Pastime

A large group of young people enjoyed the skating on Beaty Court last evening. The rink was flooded four times after the skaters left the ice, when the ice maintenance committee took advantage of the drop in temperature. The cooperation of the skaters is asked to avoid using the ice just after it is flooded until the ice is set. The ice is reported today as in fine condition for skating this afternoon and evening.

The hours today are from 3 to 6 in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 o'clock this evening. There will be adult supervision during that time. Plans are being worked out for special times when there will be music and hot chocolate for the skaters, each week.

Last evening there were three ice skaters from Kane who had started out looking for a good place to skate. When they arrived in Warren, they followed some young people who had skates over their shoulders and arrived at the illuminated rink at Beaty Court. The Kane skaters, Mrs. Naomi Jenkins, Miss Margaret Jenkins and Miss Lorraine Christenson, were enthusiastic in their praise of the arrangement which had been made with the Warren School board for the use of the court for ice skating purposes.

The Ice Activities Committee met last evening and selected captains for an Ice Hockey League, which will be announced tomorrow. The committee also blocked out plans for an ice show, which is planned for the latter part of February.

BOY BANDIT IS STILL ELUDING STATE OFFICERS

Alvin Harry Reid, Kane youth who was implicated in several robberies in this city several months ago, is still at large after escaping from the training school at Morgantza. Reid was sentenced to Morgantza by the Warren county court after he had escaped once from the Warren county jail and gave local officers a chase that ended in Ridgway.

Reid was employed at Morgantza about the farm and slipped away when no one was looking. Morgantza is but a short distance from Pittsburgh and it is thought the boy may be in that city. State police have placed a description on the teletype machine and every officer in the state is on a hunt for the youth.

He is a sulky young fellow and for a time officers felt he might try to reach this section where his relatives. All police in this section are on the watch for the boy.

Dragons Attempt 2nd League Victory Against Titusville Invaders Tomorrow Evening

Joe Massa's cagers open up their weekend hostilities against the Titusville Rockets tomorrow night on the Beaty court at 8:30 p. m. in the locals second league game of the season. The Rockets started out on the wrong foot this year, but have developed into a fairly good club, which was shown in their Tuesday night victory over Grove City, 29-16. The Warren-Titusville fray will initiate the Rockets to league play as the Dragons seek to eke out an eighth win of the season along with a second consecutive loop victory.

Having but two victories in the entire campaign, Art Brady's aggregation is somewhat leery as to the improved power of the Warren courtsters in tomorrow eve's meeting. Warren's defeat of the strong Meadville Bulldogs has put the Rockets in doubt as to their standing in the Section 2 title race, but Coach Brady asserts that the Rockets will come on the court with a thought of victory in mind and that the Massans will have to battle every inch of the way before knocking off their opponents.

Love, Rocket football pacer, leads the Rocket attacks and will require plenty of attention from the local boys. Love paced the winning attack Tuesday night with eleven points, followed by his forward mate, Panas, who converted three goals for six points. The remainder of the Titusville lineup will include Anderson at center, Lowrie and Zahner at the guard posts.

Mentor Joe Massa will rely on Joe Scalise and Tom Juliano to handle the forward spots; big Al Babcock at the jump post; and lettermen Bob Hammerbeck and George Lucia at the defensive positions. Ray Reed, Vin Gray, and Jack Eaton loom as the most valuable substitutes in Friday's fray. Saturday, the Dragons complete their weekend activity at Jamestown.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—It's time somebody wrote a piece about Joe Lapchick . . . He deserves it, if for no other reason, because he's the basketball coach who usually sits on the bench during a game and generally remains quiet during the noisy disputes for which his colleagues are noted . . . Besides that, he's one of the most successful coaches in the business, off his record at St. John's of Brooklyn . . . A big, bony looking fellow about six-feet-four, Joe never played college basketball . . . He came out of Public School 20 in Yonkers, N. Y., to a semi-pro team and then started playing pro basketball in 1919 with Holyoke, Mass., Schenectady, N. Y., and the Brooklyn Visitationists in three different leagues . . . It was a good business, he explains. "You worked every night and when there was a conflict in dates you could spend $1.25 on phone calls getting the managers to boost the price and sometimes pick up $30 or $40."

Higher Education

Lapchick joined the original Celtics, probably the most famous pro club, in 1922, shifted to Cleveland five years later when the American League broke up the team because it unbalanced the circuit, and then returned when the league was disbanded . . . He finally got to college as St. John's coach in 1936. "The first year the players were green as grass and I was greened," Joe explains. "But the same fellows made a 15-4 record their second season and 17-2 their third. Since then we've had a pretty good record." . . . St. John's is the only college that ever won the Metropolitan Invitation Tournament twice in succession, while his better than pretty good.

Wear and Tear

A comparatively placid figure on the bench at Madison Square Garden, Lapchick doesn't follow the sliding or jumping technique generally used in playing the game from the sidelines . . . "All I do is cross my legs," he admits. "But when we get a tough decision that knee is liable to come up and hit me under the chin."

Cleaning The Cuff

Did you know that the first time baseball was called "our national game" was in a headline in the Philadelphia Item April 23, 1876, telling about the season opening? . . . Mickey Walker's eleven-year-old son, Jimmy, is taking boxing lessons from George Wood, a Cranford, N. J., policeman who gave Mickey a couple of hard scraps in the old days. . . . When George Preston Marshall let out that recent blast about Elmer Layden quitting as pro football commissioner to become a coach in the All American conference, it started a lot of guys wondering why Elmer didn't exercise some of his disciplinary powers as commissioner instead of taking refuge behind dignity . . . Jimmy Johnston is ready to start booking fights for Lou Nova—as soon as Nova will admit his busted hand has healed.

Two Fast Games Scheduled In YMCA Cage Loop Tonight

As better play increases, so do the crowds. That's the story in a nutshell concerning the YMCA City cage loop, which sees its second night's activity of the first round tonight with two fast games on the slate.

In the first engagement tonight, the speedy and accurate Blomquist crew battles it out with the Sylvanians five. The Blomquist are made up mostly of high schoolers and keep any opponent on the jump every minute of the game. This crew is in luck that they can again defeat the electricians having done so in the warm-up round. The Sylvanians have developed into an accurate passing and shooting aggregation and are paced by lefthander Red Hand, former Mt. Jewett star, who is one of the deadliest shots in the league. Young Billy Massa is also a valuable asset to the Sylvanians five.

In the nightcap, another bunch of youthful participants, the Baker quint, will attempt to upset the unbeaten record of Red Swanson's Struthers Wells courtsters. The Wellsmen have yet to be defeated and are set to add another win to their column tonight. Ted Kaminski, spark of the ironworkers, will be back in action tonight following a seven-day furlough from the Bull Hill camp.

So, don your hat and coat and give out with a little support. Those boys aren't up there just for their own sake, but to add some relaxation and fun to the fans. First game at 7:30 and the finale at 8:30.

BEHIND THE LINES

Welterweight Boxing Champion Freddie "Red" Cochrane seems to be one of the most popular guys in the biz. His manager, Willie Gilzenberg, has good reason to back up that statement. A mere 24 hours after the manager had announced Cochrane's honorable discharge from the navy and that he would defend his title within six months, he was deluged with offers from fight promoters all over the nation seeking matches with the champ. He received one offer of $35,000 to meet Ralph Zannelli in March or April. The manager says there will be no match until Red has a chance to get in a gym and do some training.

So it's up to Ensign Bill Hulse to uphold America's colors against Sweden's top-flight Gunder Haegg in the winter track meets. If there was anyone who could have beaten Haegg, it was undoubtedly Dodds. But now it looks as though Hulse will have to maneuver the reins.

The reclassification of Buff Donelli and Willie Pep confirms recent orders for the induction into the armed services of professional athletes. Although it doesn't mean that every pro will be shoved into service, it's sort of a preliminary move to back up the orders from headquarters. Donelli will be 38 in July and the father of two children. Why put all the blame (Turn to Page Twelve)

Anniversary Of Baseball Is Overlooked

By JOE REICHLER

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—In the midst of wartime uncertainty over baseball, the national pastime's leaders have overlooked an historical sports event that should receive some formal recognition—the 100th anniversary of baseball's first organized team.

Baseball is generally accepted as having been devised by Abner Doubleday in 1839, but it was not until 1845 that the Knickerbocker Club, the first organized team, appeared. It was on Sept. 23, 1845, that Alexander J. Cartwright, an enthusiastic devotee of baseball, gathered together some young, wealthy New York bankers and lawyers and formed the Knickerbockers.

After some practice contests among themselves, the Knickerbockers on June 19, 1846, met a newly-formed outfit, called "The New York Nine," on the Elysian Fields, Hoboken, N. J. Despite their natty uniforms of blue trousers, white shirts, silk stockings and straw hats, the Knickerbockers absorbed a 23-1 lacing.

Despite its ignominious defeat in its first competitive game, the Knickerbocker Club became the most powerful body in baseball, setting up the rules for all clubs. Some of the original regulations are still in existence.

New Orleans is one of the few cities in America to possess an official city flag.

FRITZ IRWIN

WOUNDED AGAIN

Warren friends are learned that Frederick (Fritz) Irwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Irwin, former local residents now located in Buffalo, has suffered a second wound in action but will soon leave his amphibious training base for another crack at the Japs. Many here will remember that Fritz was in town last summer in conjunction with the Fifth War Loan, traveling from Deshon Hospital at Butler. Plastic surgery has restored the use of his arm and hand, injured by machine gun bullets and carried in a sling when he was here the last time.

WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Mrs. Donald Gebhardt, 422 Pennsylvania avenue, east, was notified by the War Department yesterday that her husband, Sgt. Gebhardt, was wounded in action in France on January 4. ## WOUNDED IN LUXEMBOURG

Mrs. Isabel Rice, Van Ertan avenue, Sheffield, received word yesterday that her son, Harry, had been seriously wounded in action in Luxembourg on January 2. He entered the service December 28, 1943, and has been overseas since July 1, 1944. He was a member of the 1938 graduating class in Sheffield High School. Mrs. Rice has two other sons in service, Orman, in Hawaii, and Charles, with the SeaBees in New Caledonia.

WOUNDED IN BELGIUM

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Baker, Lacy street, have received a telegram from the War Department informing them that their son, Pfc. John R. Baker, was wounded in action on December 23 in Belgium. Continuing air blows against Japan's vital communications on Luzon aided the steady ground pressure. Medium bombers and attack planes wiped out 61 Japanese planes on the ground at Clark Field and on 'dromes in Cagayan valley to the north of the battle zone.

PROGRESS IS MADE

Warren Lowe, of the Highway Department, stated this morning that progress is being made in getting roads of the county open for traffic. All but one road is now passable. The huge drifts that covered many of the roads have been broken out and in some places a little better than one way traffic is being used.

MUCH WORK YET

While the tracks were cleared after last Saturday's wreck at Royston within a few hours, railway men say that a large amount of work remains to be done at the scene of the Pommy's difficulty. Flat cars will have to be moved in and huge quantities of debris from the wrecked cars loaded from either side of the right of way where they were piled up in the wreck and during the work of opening up the line.

SNOW REMOVAL COSTLY

Removal of the snow on the city streets has been a costly experience for most of the towns the size of Warren. It is estimated that it has cost most of them about $5000. Street Commissioner Beck has achieved good results in Warren and it is not expected to cost over half that sum. Catch basins are being opened and advantage will be taken of any thaw in draining melted snow from off the streets.

County Tax Levy Not Yet Agreed Upon

County Commissioners in several of the counties of this section have announced the millage for their taxlevy for the coming year but in this county no announcement has as yet been made. Don Schuler, commissioners clerk stated this morning that the levy will not be made for some time until the commissioners have had an opportunity to pass on several matters under consideration. However it is not expected that there will be any change made.

Warren county is in fine financial condition and by arrangement of the sinking fund the bonds issued for road construction along in the '20s will be all paid off in 1948. These bonds carry a 4 1/2 % rate of interest which is high and calls for a fairly large levy for the sinking fund purposes. The road bonds were issued when the orgy of road building hit the state and many roads were built. These have all been taken over by the state at present. Only two of the issues are yet outstanding.

Should no emergencies arise during the next three years requiring a bond issue the county will be free from bonded debt and in wonderful shape for post-war propositions.

BEHIND THE LINES

onto the pro athletes? There are thousands of men in the nation who are not serving in the armed forces who are not doing a tenth of what these pros are doing toward nation-wide morale. But they're placing these pros up as examples, and maybe as a warning to others not now in service who soon may be inducted under new rulings.

While on the subject of War Mobilization Director Byrnes, an idea is spreading throughout the nation today that Mr. Byrnes be named as the new commissioner of baseball, the successor to the late K. M. Landis. He has demonstrated in recent weeks in a series of important decisions that he has the tough, unwavering type of mind that baseball wants in its big boss. If baseball is looking for a tough-shooter who will crack the whip over the game, the way Judge Kanasaw Landis did, it might find it in Jimmy Byrnes. For the effect of his recent rulings, the "assistant president" has stirred baseball minded men to admire him, rather than hold a secret hat for him. Most diamond men believe that the period following the war will be trying, and that Landis' successor will have a job on his hands. Whether or not Mr. Byrnes would accept the baseball job, if offered. His name has not been formally discussed by the game's big wigs. And, too, he has no background as a player, but he knows what it's all about as a smart sports fan.

Rest assured, however, that there will be baseball in Warren next season, unless more drastic measures are taken to prohibit the game. The National Forge will undoubtedly have a team, and a good one. Those fellows are all working in defense plants and do not come under the "work or fight" ruling.

In pre-machine days, it took three-fourths of U. S. manpower to feed the nation.

LACY UNIT HAS MEETING FOR DADS
The January meeting of the Lacy PTA was held at the school Tuesday, planned as a special meeting for the fathers and with a very good attendance. Mrs. F. E. Kotmar presided over the meeting, which opened with singing of "America" and parodies on "Jingle Bells" and "Reuben, Reuben". The PTA Prayer was read by Mrs. Kotmar, members giving the Lord's Prayer and salute to the flag. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. William Rohrer.

Miss Betty Gentilman, state nurse, demonstrated the Kenny treatment of infantile paralysis and a very interesting and instructive question period followed.

Miss Melda Olsen, accompanied by Miss Frances Peterson, gave two very pleasing vocal numbers, "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" and "Perfect Day".

Mrs. Ristau, program chairman, introduced Judge Allison D. Dade, whose talk on "Our Courts" was most enlightening. He traced the history of the jury system from William Penn to the present, saying "laws were evolved from the principles of religion and never change. They are fundamental in the sense of human relations and are the ultimate concept of justice."

The room award for the largest number of parents present went to Miss Lauretta Dunkle, second grade teacher. Concluding the program, refreshments were served by mothers of Miss Nelson's room, Mrs. Smetanka and Miss Anna Mae Olson heading the committee.

Labor and Machine Shortage Deters Removal of Snow

Harrisburg, Jan. 18—The Pennsylvania Department of Highways voluntarily assumed responsibility for keeping 1100 miles of roads open for winter traffic in 1921 and this winter of 1944-45 that obligation has increased to more than 20,000 miles, Secretary John U. Shroyer said.

This means that the 20,000 miles of "programmed" mileage includes the most heavily traveled main highways such as arteries leading over the State—north, east, south and west—to industrial plants, embarkation points and other areas dealing directly with the war effort.

After those 20,000 programmed miles (primary roads) have been cleared for traffic, highway forces seek to clear the remaining "un-programmed" 20,615 miles (secondary roads) and do so in the order of their importance such as openings of mail, milk, and school bus routes.

"And if we have the men and equipment,—(some of our forces have been working in relays of 24-hour shifts)—we'll clear every last vestige of snow that impairs travel," Shroyer said.

"I am glad to say that every road on the programmed mileage has been cleared."

Pennsylvania, a pioneer State in this phase of transportation service is experiencing its most difficult year since inception of this programmed mileage due to labor shortages and old equipment which has tested and gotten beyond the resources of the highway snow removal equipment.

The Secretary instructed all highway forces, including those in Erie County and from other sections who were moved in to augment the group in the northwest, to remain on the job until every road in Erie County is cleared of snow.

Secretary Shroyer announced that he had "started a request through" the WPB to buy additional snow fighting equipment for the Department.

Shroyer stated that he had been assured of rapid priority clearance by WPB. The secretary said that this meant only clearance and not delivery of the equipment.

Some of the new equipment ordered included 10 additional tractors for rotary plows, several "snower" which are used for breaking and clearing drifts, and trucks of various tonnages.
